SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE IN ARMY HINTED

Move Seen In Request to Hold Guardsmen and Selectees In Longer Service.

GOAL 2,800,000 MEN

Congress Hits Marshall Plea For Power, Lively Fight on Issue Expected.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Plans for a substantial increase in the size of the United States army—perhaps to double its present strength—were believed indicated today by the general staff's controversial request for power to hold national guardsmen and selectees in service, and to use them beyond the confines of the western hemisphere if necessary.

The question of the army's future size was momentarily obscured by the rush of highly critical congressional reaction to the high command's request, but well-informed officials pointed out that the two subjects were very closely linked.

The army's present strength, they noted, was about 1,400,000 men. If the bulk of those men are to be kept on duty, new regulars recruited and the scheduled 900,000 trainees inducted in the next year, they said, the land forces would be close to 2,800,000—the goal the high command has in mind for the first expansion, if one is deemed necessary because of world conditions. Vital equipment is being manufactured for an army of that size.

Regardless of its ultimate objectives, yesterday's request touched off a wordy tempest on Capitol Hill, where most of the legislators to volunteer comment were openly hostile to granting the power asked.

Generally, congressional reaction followed two lines. Some rejected the idea of extending the tour of service on the ground that it would be breaking faith with the guardsmen or trainees who had been mobilized or inducted with the understanding that they would be released after one year of service.

The other attack centered on the request for permission to use guardsmen or trainees outside of the hemisphere. Critics of the administration's foreign policy viewed it as another step toward eventual United States participa-

ESCAPE SIGHTED

New Sailings Likely To Free Refugees From Morocco.

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Several thousand war-stranded refugees may be able to escape from Morocco with the resumption of sailings by French vessels between North African ports and the United States under the new trade arrangement between the American government and French North African colonial authorities.

A number of citizens of American republics are among the more than 2,500 refugees now stranded in Morocco—after having been shunted around Europe and Africa for months—and their departure would settle a vexatious problem between the Vichy government and several Latin American nations, particularly Argentina.

GET PAY BOOST

1800 Cincinnati Employes Are Affected by Contract.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Eighteen hundred employes of the Cincinnati Street Railway Co. will receive pay increases of five cents an hour on a basic wage rate of 69 cents an hour under a new contract ratified last night by their local or the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach employes (AFL.)

A 10-day vacation with pay, supplanting a former six-day vacation, and $30 weekly minimums for extra men were also provided for in the agreement.

CROWD TORONTO

Thousands of U. S. Legionnaires In Canada on Visit.

TORONTO—(AP)—Thousands of American Legionnaires crowded into this city today for opening ceremonies of a three-day good will visit to Canada.

Homes, stores and business houses were decorated with intertwined United States, Canadian and British flags.

As We Would Report It

Colonies Proclaim Freedom

Congress Approves Break With Britain

Two-Day Debate Ends With Adoption of Declaration of Independence as Drawn Up By Jefferson.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: If there had been daily newspapers and leased wire services in 1776, the big headlines at colonial dinner tables on the evening of July 4, would have been over a dispatch from Philadelphia, where the Continental Congress was in session. The Congress had taken a drastic move. Here is an Associated Press Feature Service writer's version of how it would have been reported if present-day news-gathering facilities had existed.)

The document proclaims to the world that the colonies have broken all ties with Great Britain and have become the 13 free and independent United States of America.

Approval came after two days of debate as to its wording, held behind closed doors in the scandalously expensive State house of Pennsylvania. (It cost $28,000 to build.) The windows were open, however, and in streamed swarms of flies from a nearby livery stable to assail the silk-stockinged legs of the perspiring delegates.

The complete break with Britain coincides with the receipt of dispatches saying that British General Howe has landed a large army of Redcoats on Sandy Hook and is marching on New York city.

The declaration ratifies and puts into specific form the action taken by congress on July 2 when it passed the independence resolution introduced by Virginia's handsome Richard Henry Lee.

The document written by scholarly "Long Tom" Jefferson, 33-year-old freckle-faced delegate from Virginia, sets forth that "governments are instituted to secure the inalienable rights of men to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

It goes on to say that "whenever any government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it and to institute new government, laying its foundations on such principles . . . as shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness."

Quip From Hancock.

The declaration asserts that the states "have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce and do all other things that independent states may of right do."

The declaration was signed by the president of the congress, wealthy John Hancock of Massa-

In 1776 the Pennsylvania State House was a symbol of extravagance in public building. It cost $28,000. On July 4 that year the building was the scene of events which brought new fame and a new name—Independence Hall. This is how the building appears today.

GAY HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES ON TAP FOR CITY

FIREWORKS ON AT 9:30

Community Celebration Starts This Afternoon With Full Program.

While hundreds of Mansfielders were on their way to vacation spots and holiday visits with relatives at distant points, hundreds more from Mansfield and nearby communities today made plans to attend the city's annual Independence day celebration this afternoon and tonight at the Fairground.

A big crowd was expected for this afternoon's events at the community celebration, sponsored by the Mansfield Public Parks association, and upwards of 20,000 are expected tonight to see the big fireworks display scheduled to get underway at 9:30 p. m.

While the big fireworks show will be at the Fairground, there will also be others shot off by individual celebrants. Fireworks stands located on highways outside of Mansfield's city limits reported doing a brisk business yesterday and today. A city ordinance prohibits shooting and sale of fireworks within the city limits.

This is the last year for fireworks stands. A state law prohibiting sale of pyrotechnics at retail or for any other purpose except public displays under official supervision becomes effective next month.

At the Fairground, the day's program, starting at 2:30 p. m., will be presented from a large stage in front of the grandstand.

A flag raising ceremony and a brief welcoming address by Mayor William J. Locke will officially open the program.

A playground revue, directed by Don Cram, physical education director at the Y. M. C. A., will be the first event of the day. The revue, consisting of demonstrations of playground activities will be interrupted at 4 p. m. for President Roosevelt's nation-wide radio address which will be heard by the crowd at the Fairground over a public address system.

The president intends to touch on international affairs, but reluctance of officials to call the speech "important" suggested that momentous pronouncements

Russians Say Germans Meet Stiff Defense

Claim Area Near Minsk Strewn With Dead Hitler Troops and Blazing Tanks; Guerilla War Started, Soviets Blow Up Train.

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(AP)—Soviet troops, supported by artillery and warplanes, inflicted a heavy defeat on German forces during the night in the Dobruisk sector, 100 miles southeast of Minsk, a Russian communique declared today.

(By Associated Press)

German forces striving to cross the historic Berezina river on the path to Moscow have suffered heavy losses in two days of bitter fighting east of Minsk, the Russians reported today, without stating specifically, however, that Nazi progress toward the Soviet capital had been blocked.

A communique yesterday said flatly that German attempts to cross the Berezina, less than 400 miles west of Moscow, had been frustrated at all points. A communique today said only that "valiant fighting took place throughout the day on the Berezina river, where by coordinating blows of infantry, tanks, artillery and aircraft, our troops are causing heavy casualties among the enemy."

The Russians admitted Nazi troops had forced a crossing of the Dvina river in Latvia and Dvinsk and at Jekabpils, halfway between Dvinsk and Riga, the Latvian capital, but said fierce fighting still was going on.

"Only after bringing up fresh reserves did the enemy manage to cross to the north bank of the western Dvina at Jekabpils and Dvinsk, where fierce fighting was resumed," the communique said.

Besides the hard fighting in the Dvinsk and Minsk regions, the Russians said, battles also were going on in the Tarnopol sector east of Lwow, in southeastern Poland.

"The enemy is everywhere meeting with stubborn resistance from our troops, devastating artillery fire, and crushing blows by the Soviet air force," the communique said.

"Thousands of German dead, blazing tanks and enemy aircraft were left lying on the battle fields."

Around Minsk, the Russians continued, considerable losses also were inflicted on the Germans.

"The enemy cannot withstand the bayonet charges of our soldiers," they said. "The fighting has disclosed that enemy tanks avoid clashes with our heavy and medium tanks, and wherever fighter aircraft appear we rapidly gain domination of the air."

First reports of guerrilla activity since Premier Josef Stalin

TWO STRIKES MAR HOLIDAY

Threaten New York Milk Supply and Delay Work on Army Center at St. Louis.

(By Associated Press)

Two strikes, one delaying work on an important army air corps project and another threatening New York's milk supply, engaged labor's interest today in the midst of the nation's holiday celebrations.

The war department officials expressed mounting concern over the strike of 1,500 AFL-building trades workers at Jefferson barracks, St. Louis, Mo., where the air corps plans to begin training 11,825 recruits on Sept. 1. The AFL men walked out in protest to employment of about 60 WPA workers in painting 28 out of 264 new buildings.

Work on the expansion project is less than one-fourth completed, it was said.

New York's milk strike, precipitated by 23,000 dairy farmers union members in an effort to force higher prices, took a graver turn when an organized group of 30,000 other milk producers announced they would aid the union provided Owen D. Young, retired industrialist, would lead the strike.

Young earlier had invited leaders of the union and other farmers'

SEES NAVY USE

Willkie Forecasts U. S. Naval Protection on British Aid.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Short-wave radio beams carried to the world today an assertion by Wendell L. Willkie that he is "quite sure that before long now the great force of the American navy will be brought into play to insure the delivery" of supplies to Great Britain.

The 1940 Republican presidential candidate said "we understand that if we permit the last stronghold of liberty in Europe to fall before the onslaught of totalitarianism, the opportunity to save liberty in America will be lessened and, therefore, the overwhelming percentage of the American people are resolved that at whatever hazard or cost, we will sustain the fighting men of Britain."

Willkie recorded the speech in the NBC studios last night for use in a broadcast commemorating Independence day. The speech was translated into Spanish, German, Italian, Portuguese and French.

PUT MANSFIELD IN 'HIGH FOUR'

Addition of Five Policemen To Place City in 4th Place For Police Departments.

Addition of five new policemen by city council this week to act as a traffic division will provide the city with the fourth largest police department among Ohio cities of its population class, according to a recent survey made by the Lima Association of Commerce.

Mansfield, with its department raised from 29 to 34, will follow Lorain which has 38, Steubenville, 37 and Portsmouth, 36.

All three cities leading Mansfield, however, have larger populations. While Mansfield has only 37,154, Lorain has 44,125, Portsmouth, 40,466 and Steubenville, 37,651.

In a similar survey of fire departments for ten cities in the same population class, Mansfield's department ranks sixth with only 34 employes.

Out-ranking it are Lorain with 46, Lima, 43; Portsmouth, 44;

Down Town Auto Jam Ties Up Bus, Tourist Traffic

Three-Block Jam Reported As Heavy Holiday Travel Strikes Mansfield; Two Trucks, Car In Accident.

A deafening chorus of automobile horns, accompanying one of the city's worst traffic jams in the downtown section, provided a little pre-Fourth racket in Mansfield last evening, and threw city buses on some runs as much as 15 minutes off schedule.

The jam was at least partially due to the heavy holiday traffic—as families started away from home to spend the holiday. Noticeable also were a large number of out-of-town and out-of-state license plates on jammed cars.

As usual, impatient drivers leaned heavily on the horn buttons, which did exactly nothing toward clearing up the situation. On several occasion between 5 and 6 p. m. traffic was tied up for as much as three blocks in all directions in the business section.

City buses were completely unable to operate on schedule and stood in line along with the rest of the traffic.

Another but less serious wave of traffic congestion occurred about 8:30 p. m. No unusual delays were reported at that time.

Meanwhile, state highway patrolmen and police reported a series of traffic mishaps in and near the city last night and early today. Three women, all from outside the county, suffered minor injuries in a two-car accident at 4:50 a. m. today on U. S. route 42 near Lexington.

Treated at General hospital were Mrs. Clara Bailey, 33, Cleveland, who suffered multiple lacerations and bruises; Mrs. Christine Peterson, 60, Homer City, Pa., and Mrs.

RECEIVES OATH

Stone Repeats Promises Before Rangers in Colorado.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN PARK, Colo.—(AP)—With austere, black-robed justices replaced as witnesses by a corps of uniformed rangers, Harlan Fiske Stone recited his promises as chief justice of the United States supreme court yesterday in a log cabin.

High in the snow-mottled Rockies, the ceremony was "without fuss," as the New Hampshire-born Stone had insisted.

He solemnly swore to "do equal right to the poor and to the rich." And, with Mrs. Stone sitting quietly behind him, vowed to "support the constitution of the United States against all enemies." The judicial oath and the oath of allegiance were repeated after Wayne Rackett, U. S. commissioner for Rocky Mountain National park.

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa — (AP) — "If Britain gives the word, there are at least 50,000 young Jewish citizens of the United States ready to form the nucleus of a Jewish army to fight on the side of the Allies," said Col. Morris J. Mendelsohn, president of the New Zionist organization of America, today following his arrival from New York.

NEAR BILLION

Cleveland Defense Production Passes $750,000 Mark.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Counting direct contracts and estimating subcontracts, this city's defense production amounts to between 750 million and one billion dollars, the chamber of commerce estimates.

A chamber review of defense activities in the past year shows Cleveland industries have spent 115 millions for expanding their facilities, 84 millions of it in the past six months.

50 PLANES TO STOP IN CITY

Movie Actor Stewart May Join Annual Air Tour of Ohio, JAC Here Informed.

James Stewart of the movies may be in one of the planes that will land at Mansfield airport July 20 with the annual All-Ohio air tour sponsored by the Cleveland Junior Association of Commerce. Robert LeFevre of the Mansfield JAC said today

LeFevre said the situation was rampant with "ifs," but that if Stewart, who is serving his draft year in the army, was in Ohio in time for the tour, he would join it. About 50 planes are to take part in the tour.

The planes will arrive at noon in Mansfield after being joined in Lima by Mayor W. J. Locke and J. R. Harrington, airport manager.

Following the ceremonies at the airport, the fliers will be taken to the Westinghouse cafeteria for lunch. LeFevre said that the public will be invited to the meal.

The fliers will depart between 2:30 and 3 p. m.

Last year the JAC estimated that more than 10,000 air-minded saw the air tour planes at the Mansfield stop.

This year's tour will stress opportunities for youth in the flying cadet corps of the army and for that reason the Cleveland association believes it possible to obtain the services of Stewart.

Each year the Cleveland JAC sponsors the flight over the state. This year will be the fourth in which the tour has been made and 12 stops are scheduled.

IT'S SURPRISE

Temporary Power Failure Brings Cleveland 'Blackout.'

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Some parts of the city had an unscheduled blackout for from eight to 95 minutes last night due to a power failure in the municipal light system.

At the height of the blackout 17,000 street lights and 400 of the city's 610 traffic signal lights were dark, and the police radio station went off the air temporarily.

FOUND GUILTY

Physician's Sentence Deferred For Holiday in Slaying.

BATH, Me.—(AP)—Dr. Merrill E. Joss, 34, accused of slaying his physician wife, four years his senior, so he could marry a tea-room hostess, was found guilty of manslaughter today by a jury that deliberated six hours and 10 minutes.

Because the verdict was returned on the Fourth of July holiday—at 12:21 a. m. (EST) while firecrackers of passing celebrators resounded outside the Sagadahoc county courthouse—sentence was deferred until tomorrow.

Penalties for manslaughter in Maine range from a minimum of a fine to a maximum of 20 years imprisonment. Joss had been tried on a murder charge, conviction on which would have called for life imprisonment.

FLYING MISSION BACK IN ANKARA

Russian Planes Returns For More British Military Experts.

ANKARA, Turkey — (AP) — A Soviet Russian plane carrying eight British military and diplomatic representatives left Ankara for Moscow today but returned some time later on wireless instructions from the Russian government.

The plane had accommodations for 20 passengers. Its return presumably was ordered so it might await other passengers.

The mission arrived from Cairo last night. Its members were not identified, but the British embassy said they included several officers below the rank of colonel.

Industrial Boom Sends City's Bank Clearings to New Mark

Spurred by the defense program and a record industrial payroll in the city, Mansfield bank clearings and new automobile sales broke all previous records during the first half of 1941, figures for the first six months of the year showed today.

Topping the 1929 "boom year" clearings by $3,300,000, the city's bank clearings to July 1 totaled $56,843,364. Clearings for the half-year represented a gain of nearly 24 per cent over the first six months of last year.

Mansfield and Richland county automobile dealers sold 2,259 new cars during the six-months period for a gain of 25 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

Although the June bank clearings were slightly under the figures for May, they amounted to $10,337,607, which was an increase of $2,700,000 over June last year.

There were 383 new automobiles sold in the county last month as compared to only 281 in June, 1940. Last month's sales, however, showed a decline from the totals for the preceding three months which were the highest ever recorded in the county.

While business usually slumps during the hot summer months of June, July, and August, the decline is expected to be less this year because of the impetus of federal expenditures for defense articles.

NAZIS, SOVIETS IN SHARP FIGHT EAST OF MINSK

yesterday called for nation-wide warfare of this type together with a "scorched earth" policy of frustrating the Nazis said that in one German-occupied section of the Soviet a guerrilla party blew up a train loaded with munitions for German artillery as it moved toward the front.

"The crew aboard the train was exterminated," the communique added. "The guerrillas — these valiant Soviet patriots—succeeded in getting away in time."

Cases of sabotage deep in the German rear also were reported increasing.

The Germans gave out little overnight news on the progress of the fighting. DNB, official German news agency, indicated bad weather was affecting the drive, at least temporarily.

Authoritative German sources said the best Russian equipment had been destroyed in the first 12 days of the invasion and expressed doubt that Soviet industry would be able to replace the losses.

The Finns, meanwhile, issuing their first communique of the new war with Russia, reported Finnish troops had crossed the northwestern Soviet border to capture several Red army strongholds. The exact strongholds were not given.

The communique also disclosed that Finnish forces had taken over the strategic Aaland islands which were demilitarized after the 1939-40 Russian-Finnish war.

Danes Ask Recall of American Consuls

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Denmark's request that the United States withdraw all its consuls by July 15 put relations between the two countries today on a diplomatically unprecedented basis.

The request of the Nazi-dominated Danish government occasioned no surprise at the state department yesterday, but it served to complicate further an already tangled situation.

The three consuls now assigned to Copenhagen are the only representatives the United States has had in Denmark since Ray Atherton, the minister to Denmark, and his diplomatic staff were called home after the German army occupied the country more than a year ago

In the eyes of the state department, however, Denmark still has diplomatic representation here, even though the Copenhagen government has repudiated the acts of its minister, Henrik de Kauffman, and formerly dismissed him from the Danish foreign service.

Copenhagen took this action against de Kauffman in mid-April after he had signed an agreement with the United States giving this country defense base facilities on the Danish island of Greenland. He was charged with "misusing" the name of the king, Christian X.

Germans Acclaim Denmark Action

BERLIN—(AP)—The German press acclaimed today as evidence of "European solidarity" an announcement that the Danish government had asked the United States to withdraw consular officials from Denmark.

Only two weeks ago Germany and Italy asked the United States to withdraw her consuls, retaliating for the closing of German and Italian consulates in America.

(The Germans also asked withdrawal of American consuls from all German-occupied countries except Denmark, Rumania and Bulgaria.)

DNB, official German news agency, quoted the Danish foreign office as saying the United States had made it "impossible for consular officials recognized in the United States by the Danish government to continue their activity."

Report French In Grecian Port

ANKARA, Turkey — (Delayed) —(AP)—Travelers reaching Ankara reported today seeing French troops in the Greek port of Salonika about to embark for Syria.

They said at least a regiment of Frenchmen was en route to strengthen the colonial army fighting against the Free French-British invasion of mandated Lebanon and Syria.

British military sources at the same time reported continued reinforcement of the French air force there by planes flying from north Africa and France by way of Axis-occupied Greece and the Dodecanese islands.

RAF Raises Reich Raid Total to 23

LONDON —(AP)— RAF fliers ran their string of bombing forays against Germany to 23 in the past 25 nights by attacking western and northwestern districts of the reich during the night.

There were no reports of nocturnal German aerial activity over the British Isles.

(Berlin sources said a number of civilians were killed and injured during an RAF bombing in northwest Germany during the night, but that no military damage was done. Three British bombers were reported downed.)

RAF night raids have been aimed at heavy industries in the Ruhr and Rhineland valleys and against ports.

Passengers in a Mansfield Rapid Transit bus and an automobile escaped injuries at 5:30 p. m. Thursday when the bus and car collided at East Fourth street and Ashland road.

Thomas Nantz, Akron, driver of the car, told police he was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision with the bus which was making a left turn onto Fourth street from Ashland road. Both the car and bus were damaged.

See Capture of Last Ethiopian Post

CAIRO, Egypt — (AP) — Early capture of Gondar, last Italian stronghold in northern Ethiopia, was envisioned today by military circles as a result of the unconditional surrender of the Fascist garrison at Debra Tabor, announced yesterday by the Middle East command.

These circles said that Gondar, approximately 90 miles northwest of Debra Tabor, now was entirely cut off.

The size of the Italian force holding out at Gondar was not estimated. At Debra Tabor there were approximately 4,200 Italian and native troops.

Finns Claim Capture of Red Positions

HELSINKI —(AP)— Finnish soldiers, fighting shoulder to shoulder with German troops, have pushed across Soviet Russia's northwestern frontier and captured several Red army strongholds, Finnish military headquarters announced today.

A communique, the first issued here in the new war with Russia, also disclosed that Finnish forces had taken over the strategic Haland islands which 1939-40 Finnish-Russian war.

The islands, off southwestern Finland, control approaches to the Gulf of Bothnia, between Finland and Sweden. The occupation, the Finns said, was necessary for defense purposes.

The Finnish-German advance into northern Russia is continuing according to plan, the communique said.

(It did not indicate the exact sector where the advance was taking place, but presumably referred to the drive toward the Arctic Russian port of Murmansk mentioned previously by the German high command.)

Numerous small battles took place elsewhere on the Finnish-Russian frontier, but the Red army troops were repulsed at all points, the Finns declared.

They reported destruction of 47 Russian warplanes by Finnish fighters and anti-aircraft defenses up to July 2, and credited their own bombers with assaults on Soviet airfields and communications lines.

A Russian submarine was reported destroyed in a Finnish minefield.

Russian warplanes attacked Helsinki five times yesterday, but the Finns said their fighters and anti-aircraft fire prevented the raiders from damaging any military objectives.

Some damage was said to have been done to residential sections of the outskirts of the city, though no casualties were reported.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—A bursted ammonia pipe in the Kroger Grocery and Baking company meat plant caused fatal burns to Chief Engineer William Meale, 35, and critical injury to Harry Miller, 39.

PILOT BELIEVED NAZI PRISONER

LONDON —(AP)— Pilot Officer William Isaac Hall of the RAF Eagle squadron of American volunteers was presumed today by fellow fliers to be a prisoner in German-occupied France.

Hall, a native of Springfield, Vt., was reported missing yesterday after a foray over northern France.

Members of the squadron said today they saw Hall gliding down toward open country in France with his plane apparently under control and the undercarriage down.

would be lacking, an Associated Press dispatch from Hyde Park, N. Y., said.

Following the president's five-minute talk on "The Significance of Independence Day in 1941" the assembly will pledge allegiance to the flag and join in the singing of the national anthem.

Boy Scouts of Troop 9 will present a signaling demonstration at 4:45 p. m. following the completion of the playground revue Carl Stough is Scoutmaster of the troop Scouts will be busy throughout the entire program directing traffic, conducting the first aid camp, and otherwise assisting in the day's activities.

A feature of the day will be the presentation of a boy's and girl's bicycle to two youngsters who are among hundreds who have registered for active participation in the supervised recreation programs at the various park playgrounds.

A band concert will be given at 6 p. m. followed by a boxing exhibition starring five amateur mitt kings at 7 p. m. Champions on the card are Al and Joe Sauer, Frankie Lee, and Warren Strine. NCO champions and Leonard Waddell, Cleveland Golden Gloves bantamweight king. Six bouts of three rounds each comprise the program.

The fireworks finale to the celebration is scheduled to start at 9:30 p. m. Ed Wyllie, president of the Mansfield Public Parks association, said it will be the largest display of its kind in north central Ohio.

British Fly U. S. Flag On Independence Day

LONDON—(AP)—The Stars and Stripes fluttered widely over the United Kingdom today as Britons honored the United States on Independence day.

American flags flew from principal railway terminals, hotels and other buildings, and American patriotic music was played through loud-speakers at this city's Waterloo and Victorian stations.

Many Britons kept the United States embassy telephones busy asking about the holiday.

"Many of them, I'm afraid, thought it was Thanksgiving day, but didn't seem embarrassed when told what we were celebrating," an embassy attache said.

Members of the American society gathered at a hotel to hear Ambassador John G. Winant speak briefly.

First among the day's events for the ambassador, however, was a visit to bomb-shattered St. Paul's Cathedral for the unveiling of a tablet honoring Flight Lieut. William L. Fiske, first American flier to die in service with the RAF.

Hotels strove for American dishes but, hard-put by rationing, couldn't do much.

One place advertised: "Philadelphia pepperpot, chicken gumbo, corned beef hash, corn on the cob and Boston beans."

The American Eagle club canteen in the heart of London planned a dance tonight, featuring United States music only.

TWO STRIKES MAR HOLIDAY

groups to confer with him tomorrow on a "unified plan of action." He also is withholding milk produced on his farm from the huge New York metropolitan market.

Dairy union officials estimated the three-state milk blockade, accounting for incidents in which one man was killed and two truck convoys fired upon, already had halved New York City's daily 5,000,000-quart milk supply. Milksheds in New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont were affected.

In another strike, dating from March 14, union members asked President Roosevelt to take over the American Potash and Chemical Corp. plant at Trona, Calif., "in the interests of the American public."

Easing defense-labor problems, on the other hand, the defense mediation board completed a formula for averting a strike at the Western Cartridge Co., Alton, Ill., and the federal conciliation service announced an agreement forestalling a walkout on July 9 by 10,000 CIO workers in three Connecticut plants of the American Brass company.

The Trona Potash Workers, members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, are asking a compromise wage level ranging from 92 cents to $1.35 an hour, compared with a company-granted increased scale of 78 cents to $1.20. The original levels ranged from 67½ cents to $1.05 and the union first demanded $1 to $1.50. The company reopened the plant Wednesday, and declared that 560 of its 1,087 employes had returned to work.

Officials of the Western Cartridge company and high AFL leaders agreed to the mediation board's proposal that the company begin negotiations tomorrow with the AFL Chemical Workers' union and that the union call off the strike scheduled for Sunday midnight in the company's smokeless powder division.

For Bigger Army

Move to secure an army of 2,800,000 men was seen today behind the request made yesterday by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, for removal of legal restrictions to permit use of the United States army anywhere in the world and extension of service time for selectees, national guardsmen and reserve officers. Marshall's request had been met today by a storm of congressional criticism which forecasts a stiff legislative fight over the proposal

PUT MANSFIELD IN 'HIGH FOUR'

Addition of Five Policemen To Place City in 4th Place For Police Departments.

Warren, 40; and Steubenville, 35. Average for the ten cities' departments are 37 employes, three more than that of Mansfield.

According to the survey, Lorain pays policemen and firemen the highest wages among the ten cities. The pay in that city is $180 per month while the average is only $152.

Next six highest wages paid for both policemen and firemen are: Warren, $165; Steubenville, $162; Marion, $152, Mansfield, Middletown and Portsmouth, each $150.

With its additional policemen, Mansfield employs three more than Warren which has 5,000 more in population, only four less than Lorain with 7,000 more persons, and two more than Lima which has more than 7,000 more residents.

Mansfield's additional policemen advance it to third largest payroll in its class. It was formerly seventh. Although the city now pays $51,000, the five additional men swell it to $71,550.

Payrolls of the ten cities at present are: Lorain, $83,000; Steubenville, $76,392; Portsmouth, $71,250; Warren, $65,900; Middletown, $62,421; Lima, $55,000; Mansfield, $51,000; Zanesville, $46,000; Newark, $47,000; and Marion, $31,749. Average for the ten is $58,000.

At present Mansfield's fire department rates sixth in the ten but wage increases called for in the 1942 budget would lift it into fifth place. Although it now pays $64,000, the raise would lift it to $74,780.

Salaries paid firemen at present are: Lorain, $97,000; Portsmouth, $83,420; Warren, $80,000; Lima, $74,200; Steubenville, $69,840; Mansfield, $64,000; Middletown, $62,310; Marion, $61,387; and Zanesville, $57,480.

Joe Hitchcock of near Berlin was released from Holmes county jail after furnishing $200 bond required for his appearance at the next session of the grand jury. He was bound over after he pleaded innocent before Justice Wayne Stilwell to an affidavit on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He was arrested by Sheriff Harry R. Weiss.

Airing of a neighborhood feud between two Holmesville families in Justice Wayne Stilwell's court here resulted in Mrs. Charlotte Curren of Holmesville being bound over to the Holmes county grand jury under $200 bond. Twenty witnesses were heard regarding the five cases which were filed as the result of an altercation and alleged hair-pulling on June 24.

The alleged fight was between Mrs. Curren and Mrs. Gay Hudnut and resulted in filing of the five cases involving Edgar Hudnut, township trustee, who is said to have been operating a township maintainer on a street between the Hudnut and Curren properties. Currens charged that he plowed up a portion of their garden.

VETERANS' GROUPS HIGHLIGHT CAPITAL'S CELEBRATION TODAY

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Veterans of Foreign Wars today held business sessions of their 21st annual state encampment to a minimum as they trotted out their drill teams, drum and bugle corps and barber shop quartets to high spot the state capital's Independence Day celebration.

The musical groups and drill teams competed for $2,000 prizes in a program at the state fairgrounds to be climaxed by a fireworks display tonight.

A military ball and the torchlight parade of the military order of Cooties, V. F. W. unit, concluded opening day activities.

Addressing a banquet session, Rep. John M. Vorys (R.-Ohio) called for an end to "disunity" among top-ranking federal officials in an effort to keep America out of war.

"We have unity in spirit now, but no unity in policy or action," he said.

He opined that should the United States offer a fair peace proposal at the conclusion of the Nazi campaign in Russia, Hitler "would have to take it or run the risk of dividing his own people."

The encampment closes Saturday.

CHURCH GROUPS STAGE MEETING

Crestline Presbyterian Aid Society Schedules Lawn Social.

CRESTLINE—Aid societies of several Crestline churches held meetings recently.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1941.

Independence Day Has New Meaning

THIS FOURTH OF JULY, and the historic incident on which its observance is based, deserves more serious attention than is ordinarily given this patriotic holiday.

As the people of the United States rejoice in their freedom and celebrate the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, by the Continental Congress in Philadelphia 165 years ago, they must also consider that the liberties thereby achieved are now more seriously threatened than ever before.

If the military might of Hitler and like-minded dictators were permitted to eventually triumph throughout the world it would mark the end of all such freedom of individual thought and action as has come to be considered an inalienable "right" of self-governing people.

The Declaration of Independence was much more than a political paper severing ties with Great Britain. It affected the history of more lands and more peoples than our own. In a letter to a Boston committee that was planning a celebration of Jefferson's birthday, John Adams wrote:

"All honor to Jefferson—the man who, in the concrete pressure of a struggle for national independence by a single people, had the coolness, foresight and capacity to introduce into a mere revolutionary document an abstract truth, applicable to all men and all times, and so to embalm it there that today and in all coming days it shall be a rebuke and a stumbling block to the very harbingers of reappearing tyranny and oppression."

Tyranny and oppression have reappeared today in more dreadful forms than even those courageous founding fathers knew. But while that charter stands there is hope for humanity everywhere. The "four freedoms" we now uphold have had this nation's championship from the beginning, and there is strength in that fact.

More Technical Experts Needed

THE MUTUAL effort of Britain and America to save democracy enters a new phase with the president's encouragement of American technical experts to volunteer for British civilian service. Such men will be paid fair wages and salaries, have their food and lodging and uniforms provided, and returned home when their service period is ended, in three years or less. Similar encouragement is offered for men who will go to China.

Here is another striking illustration of the new emphasis on expert technical knowledge in modern warfare. The men wanted are mainly radio specialists, engineers, machine tool operators, automobile mechanics and instrument makers and repairers in various lines. They will be helping in a common cause and acquiring new resourcefulness for their own country.

Very likely there will be similar openings in Russia, too, for those who want to go there and help along technical and mechanical lines. And the movement is an interesting illustration of the extent to which present-day warfare grows mechanical and scientific.

Thrift Is Again Advised

AT LAST it looks as if thrift may become a virtue again in this wasteful country. Particularly in the realm of fuel. The public is now getting a lot of valuable advice regarding the home fires and family cars.

As for coal, the word is to buy it now. There is plenty, but if everybody waits till fall there will be a jam in delivering and it may cost more. It may also be wise for people who burn fuel oil, and have storage capacity, to fill their tanks during the summer.

And in this matter of fuel oil, for which there is going to be a big government demand, consumers are advised to be a bit stingy.

National defense authorities are especially concerned about gasoline. Our army and navy will need a lot of it, but very likely we can keep on using our cars if we're thrifty. Moderate and careful driving will save millions of gallons.

Good Record In Pilot Training

A RECENT report of the Civil Aeronautics Administration contains good news on the subject of pilot training.

In less than three years the CAA courses have turned out 70,000 pilots. The safety record has been excellent, with four and a half million miles flown to one fatality. In the spring of this year, for example, there were only three fatalities among 30,694 students.

Further evidence of the good record is the fact that the premium for insurance from private companies has been lowered five times. It began at $35 for a $3,000 policy. Today it is $7.20 for $3,000 with $1,000 of hospital benefits thrown in.

Graduates of this flying course are going into active defense work at the rate of nearly 200 a week. Their excellent preliminary training shortens the period of final polishing up and contributes greatly to the speed with which the air forces are expanding. The goal of 30,000 pilots a year should be attainable with the help of the student training program of CAA.

Atlantic Ocean a 'Free Highway'

UNCLE SAM must "hit his stride" now in the Atlantic Ocean. It is peculiarly ours, and must continue to be recognized as such, although of course in normal times it is a free highway for all mankind.

We have fought wars for freedom of the seas, and are virtually engaged now in an undeclared war for that purpose. As a matter of national policy the old "three mile limit" which originated in the age of sailing ships extends now half way to Europe, and will doubtless continue so.

Modern policy asserts our right also to use the other half in normal times. "They have rights who dare maintain them," and one of Uncle Sam's present chores is safeguarding future freedom in the Atlantic, as the main highway of world commerce, particularly of ours. The British, as a great maritime power, naturally have a similar interest in keeping it free.

Such freedom is challenged by the Nazis as a big part of their plan for world domination. Thereby they have already collided with the British and ourselves, and doubtless will do so again.

Moscow radio has been broadcasting "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" but the Communists need not expect this country to reciprocate with the "Internationale." "The Volga Boat Song" is all they can count on.

The world needs fewer cynics and more skeptics today.

Nation Pauses to Observe Independence Day

The Declaration of Independence; Thomas Jefferson, one of the signers and a scene in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, at the signing.

Independence Day, July 4, has a new significance this year as the United States again is near the brink of a war which has engulfed the European continent. The United States pauses to observe, nationally, the independence from England those many years ago, an England that today calls for, and is getting help from the group of colonies that became a world power.

I Believe In America

(Reprinted By Request)

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I believe in America.
America means something—
Something special and different
From other nations.
Often we forget what she means;
We let ourselves think
She means money and lands,
Merchandise, machinery
And manpower.
And we think we have
The world by the tail
Because we have an abundance
Of such assets.
But that's childish reasoning—
That's not the basis
Of America's greatness,
Other nations have had
Equal treasure
And yet gone blooey.

If wealth is all
That America means,
If this is all
She has accomplished
Since July 4, 1776,
Then America is just Another "also ran"
And will end
Like all the others.

But America does mean more
Than money, land and manpower;
She possesses something
Infinitely more valuable
Than merchandise;
She was based on something
Far more potent
Than genius.

SHE WAS BASED ON A VISION—
A VISION OF FREEDOM AND EQUALITY
WITH EACH MAN GIVEN
A SACRED RIGHT AND CHANCE
TO MAKE THE MOST OF HIMSELF.
THAT'S WHAT AMERICA MEANS.
THAT'S WHAT AMERICA STANDS FOR.
THE NOBLEST VISION
MEN EVER HAD
OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND HUMAN BROTHERHOOD.

Of course we haven't
Achieved that vision, yet;
We're still unfair, unkind,
Stupid and greedy.
But at least
We're aiming straight
And we're on our way!

I believe in America
Because she has that vision
And it's in her heart
As well as on the books.
Yes, I know—
She bluffs and pretends,
Acts smarty, loafs—
And passes the buck—
But in spite of that
There's something fine
In America
Something those ragged soldiers
Felt at Valley Forge,
Something those pitiful heroes
In blue and gray
Died for at Gettysburg—
Something that stayed sane and sure
Through the hell of the Argonne
And is flaming again
To white heat,
In factory, shipyard and farm;
Something that all
The spies and slackers,
Crooks and cowards
Peevers and parasites
Can never black-out!

I BELIEVE IN AMERICA!
I BELIEVE IN HER FUTURE!
SHE'S IN PLENTY OF JAMS NOW,
AND SHE'S BEEN IN PLENTY OF JAMS BEFORE,
BUT SHE HAS ALWAYS WON THROUGH—FOR YOU CAN'T KILL A VISION!

Money may fail you—
Lands may fail you—
Manpower may fail you—
But that Vision will always win!

BANK ON THAT, NEIGHBOR!
BANK ON AMERICA'S VISION!
BANK ON THE DREAM
THAT LED TO PLYMOUTH ROCK
AND STARTED
THE COVERED WAGON CAVALCADE—
NEVER MIND WHAT WE DIDN'T DO IN THE PAST.
BANK ON WHAT WE WANT TO DO NOW!
BANK ON THAT FIERCE, INSISTENT VISION
WE'VE HELD TO,
OF FREEDOM AND FAIR PLAY.
BELIEVE IN THAT VISION!
PRAY FOR IT, FIGHT FOR IT,
SACRIFICE YOUR LAST BREATH FOR IT.
AMERICA WILL WIN THROUGH!

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, July 4, 1921.

Fireworks caused fires at the J. B. Swigert home, 34½ North Adams street, the Arcade restaurant, South Main street, and the home of M. Goldberg, 114 North Main street.

The George W. Wolf tailor shop was robbed of $130 in cash and clothing.

Billy Cappeller sustained painful burns of right hand while shooting off fireworks at the Westbrook Country club.

F. M Foster, athletic director of the high school, left for New York City to enroll at Columbia university.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, July 4, 1936.

L. M. Laughbaum, Sturges avenue, and Effie and Gerald Beard, West Second street, went to Charleston, W. Va., for a week's vacation.

Ned Hughes reported that his car had been damaged by a car of unknown identity.

Beatrice Chase and Lee Roy Davis were married at Grace Episcopal church.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Hans, Helen avenue, went to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for weekend.

Timely Editorial

Hughes In 1916

Charles E. Hughes, in his early public career, was usually described as cold, even by his admirers. In his later, mellower years people will think of him as stern, if kind. Yet to this self-contained man it has been given to live through at least one highly emotional moment and one highly dramatic moment — we might even call it sensational. The present chief justice went to bed late on election night in November, 1916, believing that he was to be the next president of the United States. By next morning the picture had changed to uncertainty. It is not given to many of us to wake up to so heavy a disappointment.

We are not speaking here of the final outcome. For a good many hours the verdict was in the balance and there was time for both Charles E. Hughes and Woodrow Wilson to brace themselves against an unfavorable issue. In what manly fashion the loser accepted the result, from the moment it became known and after, is familiar history.—New York Times.

This Is Ohio

AMOS IVES ROOT, noted apiarist, was long in the jewelry manufacturing business in Medina.

One day in August, 1865, a stray swarm of bees passing through the air attracted his attention. He paid a laborer $1 for hiving the bees and from that time on he was a student and breeder of bees. In 1869, he began the manufacture and sale of beekeepers' supplies.

He built and perfected the first comb foundation machine, the first simple hive with porticos, and was the first to put out comb honey section boxes holding a pound of honey. For many years he published a monthly periodical, "Gleanings In Bee Culture."

He did more perhaps than any other man in America to commercialize bee-keeping.

1. What value was put on war gardens in the United States in the first World war?
2. Why was the late Theodore Roosevelt's progressive party named "Bull Moose" party?
3. When did the United States acquire the Philippines?

Hints on Etiquette

A lady is not required to stand in order to permit others to pass her to reach their theater seats. It is more convenient for all if she does so, however, as she avoids trodden-on feet, and hat or pocketbooks are not knocked from her lap when she stands. Standing also seems more gracious.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. They were estimated at $500,000 in 1918.
2. The name came from Roosevelt's remark early in the campaign, "I feel as fit as a bull moose."
3. They were ceded to the United States by the Treaty of Paris, 1899, following the Spanish-American war.

James Roosevelt's Gloomy View, Believes U. S. Must Move Fast

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Just what Captain James Roosevelt reported to his father regarding his recent war trip, is their secret But if it was anything like the report Jimmy gave to his superiors in the marine corps and the navy department, it was definitely pessimistic regarding British morale and organizational ability.

One story he told was of the British attack on Solum, the Axis outpost on the Egyptian border in the Libyan desert. The British attacked Solum last month believing that it was defended largely by Italians. But the Germans immediately came to the rescue with anti-aircraft guns mounted on trucks. These guns fire with great rapidity and tremendous power.

Result was that the British tanks were terribly smashed up, that out of a total of 350 tanks making the attack, about 250 were smashed or captured.

Jimmy Roosevelt made the same recommendation which most U. S. observers make after returning from Europe these days—that the United States will have to act and act quickly. For if Germany's advance into Russia continues, the British government will face a tremendous wave of appeasement sentiment within, and simultaneously the United States will face a Japan that will have Germany backing her practically next door.

Short-Lived Prohibition.

THE boys in the army don't know it, but for a few hours the other day the senate went prohibitionist and banned their cooling draughts of beer.

Colorado's tall, lumbering Senator Ed Johnson, isolationist Democrat and foe to the defense program, sneaked over the dry scheme in the guise of a substitute for a house bill outlawing prostitution within a "reasonable distance" of military reservations. The war department had asked for this bill, and when it reached the senate Johnson offered a substitute whose language appeared to be the same. His colleagues assumed he was trying to grab off some political kudos and didn't examine it closely.

But tucked away in Johnson's bill was a provision that set up rigid liquor control in army camps and also in an undetermined area around the camps. Had this language become law, prohibition could have been restored throughout large sections of the country.

Johnson's scheme passed unnoticed and his bill was on its way back to the house for concurrence when Senator Bob LaFollette, who had been absent, stormed in with loud cries of alarm.

Sheepishly the senate jerked to life and began undoing its boner. The process required several hours and four quorum calls. Then Johnson tried another tack by offering a substitute limiting the scope of his dry scheme. When it got nowhere, he frantically started scribbling another compromise. But by this time the senate was openly laughing at him, so he threw up the sponge.

Note—Real reason for Johnson's move was 1942 politics. He comes up for re-election next year and faces tough opposition from Republican Governor Ralph Carr. With the administration down on him, Johnson is trying to drum up support in other quarters, and sponsored the anti-liquor bill as a play for Dry backing.

French Lesson.

(Editor's Note—Here is another in the Merry-Go-Round series of "French Lessons" for the American People).

IN FRANCE:

During the nine months between the beginning of the war in September, 1939, and the fall of France in June, 1940, some of the gayest parties since the days of Napoleon III featured the social life of Paris.

Feeling completely safe behind the Maginot line, many Parisians entertained as never before, especially the munitions makers. Some of them even rented villas and ducal estates from the old French nobility and did them over merely to give one party for one night.

Nobody seemed to worry about what happened in the front lines.

IN THE U. S. A.

Last week one of the most lavish debutante parties in years was given by the former U. S. ambassador to France, William C. Bullitt. A special airport was arranged on his country estate outside Philadelphia for special airplanes to bring guests to the party for his daughter.

Three orchestras, especially imported for the occasion, jazzed out dance music from various corners of the estate. Snow-white swans glided on a moonlit pond. Spotlights played down upon giant blue china frogs. No less than eight champagne bars were located over his acres so that no matter where his guests strolled they would not be without a drink.

It was an occasion which the United States may not see again in a long time.

Dies Committee Out.

REPRESENTATIVE MARTIN DIES' dismal showing in the special Texas election last Saturday torpedoed more than his senatorial ambitions. It also wrote finis to the investigating committee which for three years has furnished him an unfailing open sesame to press headlines.

House leaders aren't saying so publicly, but as a result of the election they have definitely decided not to give the Dies committee a further extension when it expires this year.

Dies has been able to force repeated extensions and $100 000 appropriations on the claim of public backing. He entered the senate race confident that his reputed popularity would sweep him easily to victory. That he ran a poor fourth is taken by house leaders as conclusive proof that his claim to popular support is a myth.

If he couldn't carry his own state, they contend, making no secret of their delight, he certainly is no hero elsewhere.

For Dies his defeat is a crushing upset. Secretly he was shooting for bigger stakes—the White House. He had figured to use the senate as a springboard into the national arena in 1944. But those dreams are all over now. Some Texas politicos predict that he will have serious opposition next year to continue as a congressman.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth article in a series on New York night clubs)

NEW YORK—One of the tokens of a changing world is the absence of the French motif in Broadway night clubs and the swift rise of Latin and Hawaiian music in recent seasons.

Five years ago the Follies Bergere was the central theme. There was the Casino de Paree of Billy Rose and the French Casino of Clifford C. Fischer.

Fischer, widely experienced as a producer of the Parisian type of entertainment, had spent many years in European capitals and had under his personal contract many of the personalities who gained fame in the Follies Bergere of Paris. His productions in New York were extravagant and pretentious. He went to untold lengths to obtain what he wanted. The result was a period of high French decor on Broadway.

It cannot have been a coincidence that the French note began to wane with the Spanish Civil War and the gathering of war clouds over Europe. Tourist agencies, quick to drive home the advantages of the slogan, "See merica First," created a demand for Latin entertainment of all kinds.

The Spanish note at once manifested itself in the night clubs of the Village, of Broadway and of all the boroughs. Today, with one or two exceptions, the major clubs all feature dual orchestras—one day the most popular songs, as expressed by the voice of polls and by the Hit Parade, are sprinkled with tunes that have a Cuban, an Argentine and a south-of-the-border smack.

There are close to a hundred thousand Cubans in New York alone, and of this number a generous proportion are musicians.

They sponsored the tango, the rhumba, the conga and the old South American way. Today, it is not extravagant to say that the majority of the people who patronize night clubs in New York prefer Latin music and entertainment to any other.

Another strong note in the contemporary scene has been the rise of Hawaiian dancing, music, and entertainment in recent years. The stronghold of Hawaiian entertainment in New York is the Hawaiian Room of the Hotel Lexington, where Ray Kinney's orchestra and Lani McIntire's orchestra have alternately played for the last four years.

The South Seas theme has been further expanded on Broadway and its environs by other clubs, such as the Hurricane and the Beachcomber, so that today the twang of steel guitars and the swish of hula skirts is commonplace in the night life of the city.

This preference for Latin and Hawaiian entertainment has been vividly reflected on the more elaborate of the reviews and crazy-quilt shows have featured South American and Hawaiian entertainers.

In sum, the war has brought the Americas closer together, even in their play. If it were true that the First World War was won on the fields of Eton, is it fantastic to wonder if the second might be won in the Conga Lines of New York?

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Now don't tell me you got it bumping into a door."

A Farmer's Diary

Cause and Effect

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

YESTERDAY when I fed Bertha, the mother pig with seven offspring, I set the feed pail down and watched her eat. Since the little pigs arrived, her appetite has grown to great proportions, but as if to offset this expense, she devours without the least complaint, anything edible we throw into her trough.

While she was eating, just for a closer bond of friendship, I scratched her bristly neck between the ears and shoulders. At one certain spot I sensed a fit of satisfaction so great that she just stopped eating in order to better enjoy my friendly ministrations. Whenever I ceased for a fraction of a second, she looked at me urgently and pleaded "Don't quit! Keep on!"

I tried some other places on her back and flank but only when I returned again to the place of beginning was she satisfied. Evidently she had something there! I knew and she knew it, so I began to investigate. I parted the long black bristles carefully, looked very close, and there flat upon the skin, I touched something soft and red and round as a scarlet bead. I tore it loose with one finger and dropped it wriggling upon the palm of my open hand, Bertha grunted happily and went back to her eating.

Naturally, I'll admit, I am a man whose curiosity prompts him to look sharply at little things. I turned my little captive over and watched him slowly crawl along my hand. He had tasted blood as his red abdomen showed. I had seen his kind before and knew him for what he was—a louse.

I quite sympathized with Bertha's inclination to have him leave nor bother her again—and yet he was not uninteresting. His back was drab with lighter markings. His foremost legs like little claws were used for clinging tight. His head was very small and had been nearly buried in the sow's thick hide. His coat was soft and sleek and he was used to the fat of the land. His legs were not calloused from walking. He carried himself with an air of self sufficiency and smugness—a chip on his sloping shoulder, if you please. And in this same faith he brings up a multitudinous family, to believe the world owes them a living!

The little pigs had come up to the trough where their mother ate. One little spotted fellow with a half curl in his tail, stopped and with his short hind foot tried desperately to scratch behind his ear. Another rubbed against the trough and still another with a mark of black over one eye, rolled entirely over when he tried to reach and nip his quivering flank.

I got some louse killer and sprayed the whole pig family. I doused lime into the pen and put fresh litter down. As soon as I can I must build a pen outdoors and put them in the sunshine.

Words of the Wise

There never was found in any age of the world, either philosopher or sect, or law or discipline which did so highly exalt the public good as the Christian faith.—(Bacon)

"No man's spirits were ever hurt by doing his duty; on the contrary, one good action, one temptation, resisted and overcome, one sacrifice of desire or interest, purely for conscience' sake, will prove a cordial for weak and low spirits.. for beyond what either indulgence or diversion, or company, can do for them.—(Paley.)

MISS MARGARET SPRENG WEDS ROBERT FINICAL

Quiet Home Ceremony Solemnized Thursday for Well Known Young Couple; Relatives and Few Close Friends Attend.

IN A FLORAL SETTING of white gladioli, white roses, palms and ferns, illuminated by candlelight, Miss Mary Margaret Spreng was married here Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Spreng, 414 Park avenue west. She became the bride of Robert Finical, son of Mrs. Edith Finical, 550 Bowman street, in a quiet service in the presence of the immediate families.

The ceremony was read by Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church. Mrs. H. C. Brown of Pleasant Lake, Ind., played the traditional wedding marches for the bridal party.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely formal gown of white starched organza, fashioned with a baque waist, full skirt and short puffed sleeves. Her finger tip length veil was held in place by a coronet of tiny pearls. She carried a Colonial style bouquet composed of white roses, gardenias and swansonia.

Mrs. Charles Spreng, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a flesh organza, made similar to that of the bride's. Her Colonial bouquet was of pink roses and blue delphinium.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 35 at the home. White and green was the color scheme for the appointments of the serving table which was centered with a large wedding cake. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Finical left for a motor trip, the destination unknown. After their honeymoon they will return to reside at the Spreng home for a few months. Mr. and Mrs. Spreng will leave July 8 for a several months' tour through the west.

For traveling Mrs. Finical wore a blue polka dot silk with matching wool jacket and white accessories. Mrs. Spreng was attired in a navy blue street length frock for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Finical also wore a navy blue sheer.

Mrs. Finical attended Hathaway-Brown junior school in Cleveland and was graduated from Fairfax Hall, Waynesboro, Va. Mr. Finical is a graduate of Mansfield high school and is employed at the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company.

Out-of-town guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Brown of Pleasant Lake, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Spreng and daughter, of Loudonville.

Tell of Wedding Vows Read Sunday At Maple Grove

With this announcement friends are learning of the marriage of Miss Dorothy E. Gilliam of Ashland, and Donald Shreffler of Mansfield, who were married on Sunday, June 29 at 1 o'clock at the Maple Grove Church of the Brethern. Rev. D. E. Sower read the single ring service in the presence of the immediate families.

Mrs. Shreffler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mansbeck of Ashland R. D. 3, and Mr. Shreffler is the son of Mrs. Mae Shreffler, 295½ East Second street. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the Albert F. Remy company.

Those in attendance for the service were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manbeck and grandson, Doyle Gilliam, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Emmons and daughters, Adriann and Donna Lee, of Ashland, Mrs. Mae Shreffler and son, Earl, Miss Esther Mull of Mansfield, Karl Shreffler, Mrs. Zada Shreffler, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Bittinger of Ashland and Mrs. D. E. Sower.

Following the nuptials a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Shreffler will reside at the Colonial Apartments on Fourth street, Ashland.

Three Brides In Formal Wedding Gowns

Three brides who were married in formal ceremonies are pictured here. The top left photo shows Mr. and Mrs. Robert Finical. Mrs. Finical before her marriage yesterday afternoon at her home, was Mary Margaret Spreng, 414 Park avenue west. Top right picture is of Mrs. Scott Coffin, jr., nee Emily Jean Powers of Youngstown. She and Mr. Coffin of Mansfield were united in marriage June 28 at the Fairchild chapel at Oberlin college. They will reside in Rochester, N. Y. Lower photo is of Mrs. Jacob Zacharias, who was formerly Ann Gonshirski. Her wedding was an event of June 21 at the St. Peter's Catholic church.

REGULAR MEET.

Mrs. Mae McFarland, noble grand, presided at the meeting of the Miriam Rebekah lodge Wednesday evening. The visiting committee was appointed and will be composed of Miss Lois Addlesberger and Miss Gertrude Smith. It was planned to give a cash donation to the United Service Organization. Committee members for the July, August and September meetings are Miss Frances Smith, Mrs. Esther Moser, Miss Gertrude Smith, Mrs. Frances Beamer and Mrs. Margery Huber. The next regular meeting will be held July 16.

Ceremony Held At Akron 29th Of Last Month

Announcement is being made of the wedding of Miss Anna Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ensil Garrett of Plymouth, to Raymond A. Paramore, son of Joseph B. Paramore, Ruggles. The ceremony was solemnized in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Akron, on Sunday, June 29, at 4 o'clock. The altar was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and beauty baskets of roses and lilies.

Mr. Wilie Garrett, uncle of the bride, gave her in marriage. She wore a formal gown of white satin trimmed with bands of silk lace and tiny bandings of pearls. Her bouquet was of white roses and blue delphinium.

Attendants for the bride were Miss Rosy Garrett, sister of the bride, and Miss Airel Paramore, the bridegroom's sister. They wore blue organdy frocks, floor length, trimmed in pink and white. Completing their costumes were large off the face hats in matching shades. Clinton Paramore was his brother's best man.

Master Dale Springer, nephew of the bridegroom, served as ring bearer. He wore a white suit. Flower girls were nieces of the bride and groom, Ruth Remy and Annette Springer. Their frocks were short pink organdy trimmed with blue ribbons. They wore colonial bonnets of pink and blue.

Preceding the service vocal numbers were sung by Miss Reed and Mr. Carpenter of Akron. Their selections were "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "I Love You Truly." Bishop Ripley read the service in the presence of 90 friends and relatives. Following the nuptials a wedding dinner was served.

Among those present were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lotta Garrett of Plymouth; the bridegroom's grandfather, Z. B. Paramore of Shiloh; Mr. and Mrs. Ensil Garrett and daughters, Rose and Isabel; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Remy, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Garrett, Mrs. Catherine Sourwine, Harold Prelip, Miss Betty Entler of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Springer, son and daughter, and Miss Mary Neal of New London, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Paramore, Clinton Paramore, Miss Airel Paramore, Joseph Enerby of Ruggles, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Runkel of Shelby.

Letters From Men, Women Are Answered

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going with a certain man for more than two years. In the beginning I didn't want to go steady, as I was still the wife of another man, from whom I was separated. This man wanted me to marry him as soon as I could be free of my husband, but since then he hasn't said a word about marriage.

I don't go out with any other men, and I stay at home evening after evening. I am anxious to make a real home for my little son, who is now ten years old, but I dislike asking my friend what he really intends to do. He has a very good position, and is well able to take care of both of us. He is eight or nine years older than I am. RENE.

When a man has devoted himself exclusively to a woman for two years, and she has not gone out with anyone else, she is certainly entitled to know his intentions. I've had heart-breaking letters from women who have been true to men like this, who have been devoted for years.. Yet when time has robbed these women of youth and good looks, they have been deserted for someone younger and more attractive.

I certainly think you are entitled to know where you stand in this matter.

Other Men Take His Girls.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a man of 30 years, intelligent, and financially independent. I have been in this city over a year, but have been unable to find a girl to take out dancing, or to the movies.

I have joined organizations, but haven't been able to get into any of the so-called "cliques," which exist in almost any club. Other men gang up on me and take the girls away from me because I'm still a stranger to them. Please let me know what to do. G. R.

Often it takes a little more time than a year for a young man, a stranger in a big city, to take root socially. Don't be discouraged.

I'm sorry I can't state your name and the work you're doing, also that you'd appreciate meeting a nice girl. But this column never gives introductions or acts as a go-between among correspondents. Just have a little more patience, and you'll meet the type of girl you're looking for.

Double-Ring Ceremony.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 17 years old, rather a country girl, but am going to marry a young man who has always been active in social affairs. We will be married soon, wearing street clothes ,and the wedding is to be held at the home of one of our friends.

In a double-ring ceremony, does the bride-to-be buy the ring for the groom? Does the bride also give the groom a gift?

Is the bride supposed to wear her diamond during the ceremony? CON.

If there's to be a double-ring ceremony, the bride buys the ring for her prospective husband, and he buys hers.

It is entirely optional whether a bride gives the groom a wedding present or not.

The bride wears her engagement ring on the right hand during the wedding ceremony, and later she transfers it to the left hand.

A nice way for a bride to give a present to the groom is, after they have started housekeeping, to give him something, to be used in the home, such as an easy chair, a desk, a radio, a humidor, if he smokes; a card table, or books, if he's fond of reading.

Freshen Up Wardrobe With Home Sewing

Have you cast a calculating eye over your wardrobe, lately? If you have, you are, in all probability, amazed at the gaps that will have to be filled. Exciting new clothes in the shops only serve to make you more aware of the deficiencies in your own closet. And if you try to live close to your budget, you are face to face with the discouraging fact that you can't afford to buy all the clothes you are going to need. But you can make them!

If you don't already know how to sew a fine seam, you'll want to make plans for getting some instruction, when we tell you that it is possible to make an entire wardrobe, consisting of nine garments, for less than $54. This wardrobe of clothes to make yourself has been designed especially for the business girl—with suggested "alternates" to make it suitable for the college girl, too. The price includes all the big and little clothes items that help to make the career girl's lot a happy one. You can make a coat, a wool jacket dress that will serve as a suit, a print dress, a jerkin, an evening dress, an extra skirt, and even a crocheted cap—and a cost chart gives the price of each finished garment, down to the last button. Simple classic styles, universally approved and included in all the standard dress pattern catalogs, have been chosen, so that the girl who has never sewed before will have no difficulty.

The smart business girl who wants variety in her wardrobe appreciates the importance of having clothes that will mix and match. When planning your wardrobe, decide upon your basic color scheme, and build around it. The budget wardrobe plan will help you in this, since it is based on the mix-match idea. Colors and designs have been so coordinated that out of nine costumes, you can have more than a dozen variations.

Balanced Meal Necessary for Good Skin

By MME. QUI VIVE

There are unfortunate women who wear a permanent blush. What is still more unfortunate, the blush spreads over the nose, sometimes the forehead. The tiny capillaries that give coloring to the skin are working overtime. Sometimes this condition is due to physical disturbances. Oftimes it is the penalty a woman pays for making a royal gorge of herself. She loves heavy, rich foods and her digestive works find difficulty in taking care of them.

The florid skin was a common sight in the good old time of the eight-course dinner which was supposed to be the proper caper when one entertained. To pass anything by was a social offense, so one went on and on with the stuffing ordeal. During the last two decades women have learned a lot about serving groceries. They know that the balanced diet should be approximately four parts carbohydrate, one part protein and one part fat. Protein is that type of food which comprises lean meat, fish, egg white and the curd of milk. Carbohydrate consists of sugar and starch. Fat includes meat fats, butter and vegetable oils. Good housekeepers arrange their meals accordingly.

They include plenty of vegetables, dairy products, fruits and fruit juices. A green salad is served once a day.

The lady with the flushed skin is likely to be fond of condiments. She's a great girl for mustard, pepper, biting sauces. These are palate stimulants, and she loves them as the tippler loves his bottle. She insults her stomach, which gets even with her by putting on a rudiness of complexion that is no help to the reflection in the looking glass.

Cosmetics will help keep the skin surface smooth and they will improve the texture, but unon the too vivid coloring they will have little effect. The woman with the flaming skin should use oily preparations at night, astringents in the morning, should avoid the use of water very hot or very cold which will make capillaries even more highly energized. Tepid water should be the rule.

Massage should be avoided; it is too stimulating. Creams should be patted in softly and gently.

The cure will be found in a more restricted diet; less protein, more green vegetables, fruits and fruit juices. In the salad dressing lemon juice should be substituted for vinegar.

If overweight is present, the intake of food should be cut down, especially fats, sweets and starches. Plenty of water should be taken each day, at least four or five glasses.

Exercise must be moderate. A brisk walk every day will aid digestion and decrease weight.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Don't even voice a fear like that again," I told Ronald, with a severity in my voice that masked my own secret terror concerning Marion's fate. "Of course there's hope. But if you give way to fear, you're hampering your own chances of helping her."

"I know," he said dully. "but it's so hard waiting. If there were only something I could do."

"Do!" I exploded purposely. "You've been doing things to help us every minute since I saw you. You had a very special task this evening, and you did it extremely well. And that task is still with you."

"Oh!" he breathed comprehendingly. "You mean watching—"

"Don't finish that," I said hastily. "You know what I mean, and it isn't wise to say anything unnecessary over the telephone. But keep right on with that task until you are relieved—probably tomorrow—and then you can come down to New York and help up here."

Madge Reassured Ronald.

"I'm sorry," he said contritely. "I'm so nearly crazy I forget to be careful. But I won't mention any names again, and I'll get hold of myself. I promise you that."

"That's all I want, Ronald," I said. "The rest will follow."

"Are you sure there's nothing you want me to do before I meet that train?" he asked.

"Not a single thing," I told him heartily. "Go home now, and try your best to get some sleep until train time. I know you think you can't sleep," I went on hastily, "but remember—it's the best way you can help."

"I'll try hard," he answered docilely, but with a doubtful note in his voice. "Good-bye."

I hung up the telephone upon my own "Good-bye," and Mary's eyes were bright with sympathetic understanding as they met mine.

"Poor kid!" she said. "He's sure going through a little private hell of his own, isn't he?"

"Indeed he is," I answered, and Mary's eyes clouded suddenly.

Mary Seems Embittered.

"He isn't the only one," she said, and there was a hint of bitterness in her tones. "He has plenty of company.

There was a certain expectancy in her voice which warned me that it would take but a word of encouragement from me to elicit the confidence which she patently was anxious to give me.

"Aren't we all?" I quoted. "But now we really must get over to the party. If you'll just fix that bit of neckwear for me, I'll freshen up a bit."

She grasped my arm and swung me around facing her, looking at me with eyes suddenly keen.

"That means you don't want to talk to me just now," she said. "Well! I suppose it is a bad time for 'letting down our back hair,' Isn't that what they used to say in mid-Victorian days?"

She laughed, again with that elusive note of bitterness, and I put my hand against her cheek in a sudden impulsive caress.

"Dear child!" I said tenderly. "You shall talk to me as long as you wish, just as soon as we can be sure of a chance to talk undisturbed."

She caught at my hand, pressed it convulsively, then put it away from her.

"Don't be sweet to me," she said. "I'll go all to pieces if you do, and I have to keep a steady head, Scold me, fight with me, or coldly ignore me, but don't humor me."

"I shan't," I promised a bit grimly, but much relieved at her acceptance of my ultimatum. "And now, if you'll get at that neckwear."

"Presently, presently," she cried, and there was a grim note of determination in her own voice. "I'll have it ready in plenty of time. But before you stir a step out of this room, you're going to lie down for ten minutes. I don't care whether you sleep or not, but you're going to stay put that long, anyway."

Salad as Main Dinner Dish For Hot Days

By BETSY NEWMAN

A SUBSTANTIAL salad is an excellent choice for a principal dinner dish on a somewhat warm day. Fish or leftover meat may be used, and the other ingredients are largely a matter of the cook's ingenuity.

Today's Menu.

Tuna Fish Salad
Green Peas, Creamed or Buttered
Potato Chips
Philadelphia Sponge Cake
Coffee or Tea, Hot or Iced

* * *

Tuna Fish Salad.

1 small can tuna fish
1 head lettuce
2 tomatoes
1 bunch radishes
1 apple (may be omitted)
1 small cucumber
1 green pepper
Salad dressing

Shred tuna fish, slice or chop other ingredients (not too fine) and mix with salad dressing. Serves six.

* * *

Philadelphia Sponge Cake.

1 cup pulverized sugar
1 cup flour
½ cup milk
3 eggs
1½ teaspoons baking powder

Beat whites and yolks of eggs separately. Sift flour, sugar and baking powder together and add them alternately to the yolks with milk; fold in beaten egg whites last, flavor to taste and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) in sponge cake tin.

HOME, JAMES

GLENS FALLS, N. Y.—(INS)—When firemen at the Broad Street Station clambered aboard the pumper to put out a fire, Fireman Harry Page, who is towerman on the hook and ladder, asked as usual, "Where ya goin'?" And, as usual, he received an answer from the driver, Fireman Harold Jones. Only the answer was unusual. It was: "We're goin' to your house, Harry!"

About 24,000 of the 35,000 persons killed in U. S. traffic accidents in 1940 met death because a driver committed a reckless or illegal act.

Says Agriculture Takes Care of Surplus Workers

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Agriculture takes care of more people than all of the direct relief programs in the 48 states combined, R. M. Evans of the Department of Agriculture disclosed recently.

Modern agriculture has a surplus population of six to eight million persons, who remain on the farms instead of becoming relief workers, Evans said. Of this surplus some members will obtain jobs because of the defense program. But Evans pointed out this employment is offset by the war which has wiped out several hundred million dollars of agricultural exports.

"By supporting six to eight million farm people who are not required for commercial production, agriculture is carrying out a large-scale relief program at its own expense. It is taking care of more people than all of the direct relief program in all of the 48 states combined," Evans said.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

AVOID EXTRA RISKS

If you can find a way to play for your contract which risks no immediate loser except one which is a certain loser anywhere, then, other things being equal, that is a better course of action than one which risks a possible additional loser. By following that simple precept, it is possible sometimes to make your contract a sure thing, whereas the alternative subjects it to a certain amount of danger.

	♠ A 5 ♥ K 8 7 6 ♦ Q J 9 2 ♣ A 10 9
♠ 8 3 ♥ A J 10 4 ♦ K 5 4 ♣ J 8 7 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ 9 6 4 ♥ 9 3 2 ♦ 7 6 3 ♣ 6 5 4 3
	♠ K Q J 10 7 2 ♥ Q 5 ♦ A 10 8 ♣ K Q

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 NT	Pass

Here is another hand which shows the wartime skill of Canadian stars. Mrs. J. H. Nevitt, of Toronto, made her contract by sound play, whereas several other declarers in the same tournament managed to get beaten.

Defeat was not due to difference in lead, for the club 2 was the opening in various cases, the South hand winning. Several of the declarers then saw that, if the diamond finesse would work, all 13 tricks could be taken. One of them risked everything on it, taking in the club K for the second trick, leading to the spade A, cashing the club A for a heart discard, then leading the diamond Q and putting the 8 on it. West took this with the K, cashed the heart A and then set the contract.

Mrs. Nevitt did not monkey with the diamond finesse at all. After winning the first trick, she led the heart 5. If West had ducked, letting the K win, the other heart could have been discarded on the club A, leaving her only a diamond loser. But West came in with the A. That made it possible to discard both of her diamonds, one on the heart K and the other on the club A, assuring the contract.

Here are two interesting sidelights. Notice that an opening trump lead, followed by another trump lead when West won his heart A, would destroy the timing of the hand and beat the contract, no matter what South did. Also take a look at that East hand—a 1628 to 1 shot without a single honor, a real honest-to-gosh "Yarborough."

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ K 9 4 ♥ J 6 5 3 ♦ A 10 4 ♣ A Q 8
♠ 3 ♥ 8 7 2 ♦ 9 8 6 5 ♣ K 9 5 4 3	N. W. E. S.	♠ A J 8 7 5 2 ♥ A ♦ Q 2 ♣ 10 7 6 2

If East opens this deal with 1-Spade and South winds up in 4-Hearts, what is the correct defense against the contract?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, July 5.

A day of extraordinary excitement and activity, with every department of life quickened to high tempo and possibly daring achievement, judging by the long chain of planetary aspects operating intensively. In every phase of living this intensity prevails, and this despite a very tenacious obstacle, delays or obstructions threatening to undermine frustrate cherished objectives. These will be vanquished by determined attack, prudence, and wisdom, with help from large organizations or public bodies. Friendship, social and humane factors have high potency in promoting major enterprises, public and private.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of extraordinary excitement, commotion and achievement, with things moving to desired ends under high pressure and greatly stimulated initiative and aggressiveness. This accompanied by stubborn efforts to thwart, delay, frustrate and defeat, probably forcing change of plans, methods and possibly environs. But all menace may be successfully coped with by assistance from high places. Friendship, social standing, personal popularity are powerful factors for progress and achievement. Utilize these graciously.

A child born on this day should be splendidly endowed with many talents and forces for outstanding, or unique success, rising above tenacious obstacles, handicap or probably personal idiosyncrasy, winning by its gracious social and humane qualities and sympathies.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Can't Print That!

(A compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead — you've probably guessed right!)

* * *

MARTY is a Broadway detective, and about as tough and relentless a constable as the force has ever produced—as everyone who stays out late knows full well. He has shot it out and slugged it out with some of the meanest criminals who ever set foot in town.

Dorothy Kilgallen

Innumerable short stories — even movies — have been based on his exploits, and if you read or saw any of them, you probably deduced, and quite naturally, that Marty's tough and agile body contained no heart.

But this is not quite true. Here's why.

Some time ago, Marty and his partner locked up a young lad on a robbery charge The right witness identified the boy, he couldn't present a tight alibi, and has case looked black Of course, he was convicted speedily and soon enrolled as a student in Mr. Lawes' famous seminary up the river.

Afterwards, Marty began hearing from people in the lad's neighborhood that he wasn't that kind of a boy—and they were sure a mistake had been made. You wouldn't expect to worry a "tough" cop like Marty, but it did.

On his own time, and at his own expense, he began looking into the case again. He talked to the neighbors, and he visited the boy in Sing Sing several times.

Finally, he came to the conclusion that a mistake HAD been made and that he had been a party to it.

So he did the right thing—but not what anybody would have expected him to do.. He went to the judge and the district attorney and the correction commissioner and all the other officials whose authority was involved, and after three months of talking and pleading he got the boy out of jail!

But you can't print that. Everybody would think that tough Marty was softening up—and that would break his heart!

This story started as a real Broadway romance. Paul was a press agent and Lottie was a pretty little chorine about 17. They got married and neither one ever had eyes for anyone else—at least for a year or two.

Then something went wrong. A middle-aged gent with a few million dollars jangling in his tuxedo trousers stepped into the scene and cast a wolf's eye at Lottie

The rattling of coin was a beautiful sound in Lottie's ear, and she broke up the marriage and went west with the money man. He neglected to mention marriage, but that didn't bother Lottie; she was splashing in luxury.

Thereupon Paul, pushing aside a lot of fellows who were pretty proficient in the same department, immediately became the undisputed president of the Torch Carriers' association He carried his torch for Lottie here and there and all over the land until his very name became a symbol of unrequited love, and songs were written about his misfortunes

He didn't see Lottie for nearly four years, while she remained with her rich beau. But as often happens, the rich fellow tired of Lottie, and a few weeks ago she drifted back to New York alone

One night she walked into the night club that Paul runs and one of his best friends spotted her. He recognized her, although her hair was a different color and she had lost weight and her face was no longer the face of a pretty 17-year-old.

In fact, she must have changed a lot. Because when Paul, all excited came running out to find her, he walked right by her table without recognizing the girl he had dreamed about every night for four years.

When she was finally pointed out to him he almost fell down with the shock

But what happened to his heart in that moment is the oddest part of the story. You might think that the sight of her, so changed would have cured his torch, mightn't you? But you'd be wrong Now the torch he carries is brighter and hotter than ever

But you can't print that He'll be wanting to tell it himself around the bistro tables when his mood is mellow and the midnight hour seems sad You wouldn't want to spoil his plaint, would you?

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Scholar Rouben Mamoulian, who has just given the public "Blood and Sand," which it apparently wants very much, has an idea on how Hollywood can give the public what it doesn't want.

"And Hollywood should do it," he says flatly—but not so unreasonably as that may sound

The bespectacled, tall young man is always having ideas, which makes him an interesting director.

That was apparent more than a decade ago, when he made his first movie, "Applause." You may not have liked it then, or even seen it, for it was not a great popular success. Some of the critics pointed out, at the time, that it was five years ahead of its date. They were right. "Applause," made by this new director from the stage, served powerfully to liberate the talking picture camera from a static prison. It made the camera move and do tricks as in the old silent days—and a few more tricks besides. It also employed what is now a commonplace device, the sound track as a means of conveying characters' unspoken thoughts.

But to get back to the public and what it does not want:

Mamoulian turns to other fields—art and music—to substantiate his thesis that the public, the final arbiter, can be led. To famous artist Vincent Van Gogh, who earned a total of $60 50 from his paintings during all his lifetime, whose then scorned works now command fabulous prices. To composer Stravinsky, whose first performances caused riots and scoffing, but whose works now are accepted by music-lovers everywhere.

Hollywood, he says, gives no opportunity to its own Van Goghs and Stravinskys. Hollywood could How?

"Every studio makes a certain number of 'B' pictures every year Pictures nobody expects to be good. Fillers. They cost little and they take little time. But all together they are very expensive pictures," says scholar Mamoulian

"If each studio took the money for only five of these pictures and set it aside for purely experimental films," he insists, "we would make progress If all the studios got together and pooled funds for this purpose, it would be a wonderful thing. New ideas could be tried, new talents developed. I don't say the pictures would be successful, nor that the public would 'want' them—at first. But they would serve to lead the public into wanting them in time."

1,400 MEN, 125 OFFICERS NOW IN OHIO GUARD

Home Defense Near Peak With Only 600 More Guardsmen To Be Mustered In.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Home defense in Ohio reached near peak strength today as Adjt. Gen. Whittier Bird announced that 1,400 men and 125 officers had been mustered into the new state guard.

This action raises the number of men available for preservation of internal peace and prevention of sabotage during war to near the 10,000 mark.

It assures Ohioans that, come what may, their homes, jobs, power plants, gas, water, light, power, telegraph and other utilities will continue to operate and that mighty defense industries with $600,000,000 in defense orders will be safe.

It leaves only 600 more men and 33 more state guard officers to be sworn into the service, a matter which will probably be disposed of in the next 10 days And if need be, the guard can be increased to its limit of 4 800.

Such a move is not considered likely now or in the near future But if war should come to America the others will be added as a precaution. There are many lines of communication bridges and railroads to be guarded.

For many months the federal bureau of investigation under head G-Man Edgar Hoover has been charting a course of protection This course includes reliance upon the following units:

1 City police in all incorporated municipalities, probably about 6,500 in all through the state.

2 Sheriffs of 88 counties and their deputies, or about 500

3 Private watchmen and guards of long experience and proven trustworthiness or about 500

4 Agents of eight federal investigation units including the FBI, secret service, field men of the internal revenue department, intelligence agents of the internal revenue department, postoffice department inspectors, narcotic agents, agents of the alcohol tax unit, and army and navy intelligence officers

In addition, agents of the state liquor control board and the state highway patrol of 300 men could be used in time of need

Of the 28 guard units now formed, most began active drill July 1, last Monday A company generally includes 50 men and three officers.

CONTINUES JOB

Council Impressed By Results of Roof Drainage Plan.

Impressed by the effect of the removal of roof water from the city's sanitary sewer system, city council has continued the appointment of R. E. Hines, roof drainage inspector, for an additional six months

Hines reported yesterday that approximately 33 per cent of the roof drainage had been eliminated from the sanitary sewers.

The inspector said that 960 roofs containing 797,429 square feet or 18.3 acres for drainage had been inspected and eliminated from the original estimate of 3,000 roofs with nearly two and a half million square feet and 56 acres of drainage

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said the majority of complaints formerly received from home-owners following storms, had been eliminated by the program.

'BLACK LIGHT' TESTED IN OHIO

Army Engineer Explains Blackout In Cleveland Suburbs.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— "Black light" to guide ground traffic in a blackout and a "glare barrage" to baffle bomber pilots and bombardiers are two scientific developments with which the army is experimenting.

Capt. Warren S. Everett of the United States army engineers made the disclosures following two nights of test blackouts in a small area around the suburb of Moreland Hills.

The devices for aiding traffic in the dark can do much toward cutting down military and civilian casualties, when perfected, the captain explained. He pointed out that in the early months of London's blackout experience, traffic casualties exceeded the number injured by bombing.

CANTON CALLED FAST-GROWING

Rise In Payrolls, Employment Indicate City Is Among Nation's Leaders.

(By Associated Press)

CANTON — Record-breaking business activity during the first six months of 1941 added credence to recent surveys citing Canton as one of the fastest growing industrial communities in the nation

With the peak of expansion not yet in sight, industrial payrolls, employment and production soared to new heights in the first half of the year.

Payrolls of the city's 68 major industrial plants gained 50 per cent since Jan 1 and employment 40 per cent, bank clearings jumped 40 per cent, sales tax receipts 60 per cent and post-office receipts 12 per cent.

Auto and truck sales are 75 per cent ahead of last year and freight carloadings have picked up 34 per cent since Jan 1.

After many lean years, building contractors are swamped with work Since the first of the year 625 homes have been completed or started in the city, with many more in nearby residential districts Private home construction is 120 per cent ahead of the first six months of last year and, in addition, the federal government is building 300 family units in a defense housing project which may be expanded to 500 units.

Improving the industrial picture during the next six months will be the gradual increasing production at the new $16,000,000 naval ordnance plant which began limited operations only two weeks ago. Before the end of the year at least 25,000 men will be employed in the capacity operation of the plant's four giant factory buildings.

Local financial experts predict that all lines of business in Canton, with few exceptions, will finish the year with gains averaging nearly 90 per cent over 1940.

Judge Reprimands Man For Flimflamming of Cell Mate.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The jail, Judge Oscar Caplan told William Grego, is a poor place for flimflamming folks.

Grego was released a few days ago after serving 11 months for operating a confidence game. But investigators averred that before he left he convinced a cell block mate that he could get him out for $35 and soon thereafter collected the fee from a relative of his "client."

Now Grego is back in jail serving 90 days on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

MANSFIELD GIRL SCOUT CAMP TO OPEN WITH 107 REGISTERED

Mansfield Girl Scouts will open a three-week camping period Tuesday at the J H Nichols farm, seven miles southwest of Mansfield with the largest enrollment in Scout day camp history

One hundred and seven Scouts between the ages of eight and 15 are registered for the camping season that will take them to a rustic site two days a week for all the rigors and pleasures that outdoor life affords Enrollment in the past has averaged between 75 and 85.

This is the first year that camp has been held outside the city and the Scout organization is indebted to Mrs. J. H. Nichols for the use of the Nichols farm during the camp period. Heretofore camp has been held on a South Diamond street site.

An entire new staff of counselors will be in charge of camp activities this year, according to Miss Eleanor Bond, Girl Scout executive secretary.

The personnel includes Mrs G. R. Masquelier, Mrs. M Lee Hundley, Mrs Grandin Godley, Mrs Paul James, Mrs John Salyer, Mrs Alvin Krieg and the Misses Helen McCauslin, Dorothy Gump, Patty Bancroft and Betsy Cave

Camp will be held each Tuesday and Thursday from 9 30 a m. to 3 30 p. m. and the girls will arrive home at 4 p m, Miss Bond announced

Transportation will be provided by parents and the Girl Scout council Twenty-one automobiles have been lined up to convey the campers

Four tents will be erected to supplement the log cabin on the farm in the case of rain when shelter will be needed.

Mrs. Louis Lamoreux, chairman of the camp committee, has had the assistance of Mrs. J C. Gorman, Mrs. Carl Gibson and Mrs Katherine Hartman in planning the season.

HE'S 'PUT' $3.50

Would-Be Roomer Deposits Rent, Robbery Foiled.

Mansfield police were searching for a youth who not only failed in an attempt to rob a West Third street rooming house proprietoress but also left behind $3.50 of his own money.

Mrs. Allie McClure, 270 West Third street, told police that a youth, who gave his name as Bob Shriner, had come to her home and inquired for lodging She said that the youth claimed to be from Indiana and an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

While in the home the youth paid $3.50 in advance toward his room rent, attempted to contact someone on the telephone and then walked to the door where he looked up and down the street.

Mrs McClure said that he suddenly pulled out a pistol and struggled with her, commanding her not to give an alarm. She screamed, however, arousing another woman roomer at the home. Mrs McClure said that the youth fled with the appearance of the other roomer

Laff-a-Day

"I really don't know who he is, but it's fashionable these days to have a picture of someone in uniform!"

The problem of transporting 107 Girl Scouts to and from camp, seven miles southwest of Mansfield, twice a week for three weeks, has finally been solved by the camp committee. Twenty-one automobiles have been lined up for conveyance and parents and Scout conselors will do the chauffeuring. This is the first year that such a problem has arisen as camp in preceding years was held in the city.

Mansfield police are going to be glad when the new state law prohibiting the sale of fireworks goes into effect. For the past week officers have been kept busy answering complaints about boys shooting firecrackers in the city, only to find that the offenders have disappeared by the time the police arrive. There is an ordinance against the use of fireworks within the corporation limits, but boys are always willing to take a chance on throwing big firecrackers into streets and alleys and then running before officers can find who they are.

WORK DELAYED

Rain Halts Improvement of Five Mansfield Streets.

Yesterday's rain temporarily halted work on the improvement of at least five Mansfield streets, the grading of Sturges avenue between Cline and Lexington avenues and the laying of asphalt coatings on four other streets.

Permission to use a strip of land needed for widening Sturges avenue was obtained yesterday from the Cities Service Oil company after more than a month of negotiations. Service-Safety Director C. M. Cratton said that the transfer of the land rights had been held up for several weeks by legal technicalities.

The city plans to widen, grade and pave that section of Sturges avenue which Crafton said has been long considered a traffic "bottleneck."

Sealer asphalt coats were to be laid on Bowman and Dorian streets and foundation coats on Walter and Rhein avenues yesterday but the rain postponed the work until Saturday or possibly Monday, according to Crafton.

REFUGEE TELLS OF BOMB HITS

NEW YORK —(AP)— Dagobert Elias, a Jewish refugee from Hamburg, Germany, declared last night that Royal Air Force bombers had caused heavy damage in that city and that as a result its residents had little enthusiasm for war.

Elias arrived on the Portuguese vessel Corte Real and said in an interview that the R A F. had bombed Hamburg on an average of three times a week.

Deaths in Hamburg, as a result of R. A. F. attacks, Elias said, had been "much greater than the Germans admit. On several nights recently the deaths were between 200 and 300 in one night's raid."

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Lt. Col. B F. Vandervoort, Zone V construction quartermaster, today urged greater speed in building ordnance works and asserted that "work stoppage can not and will not be tolerated."

He commended building trades for settling minor differences, but said that 19 projects embracing buildings of concrete, steel and brick in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky are only 53 per cent complete.

DIETRICH SAYS TRAINING HAS VITAL ROLE

Lists Work of Urban, N. Y. A., and Post School Courses Conducted in State.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, reported today that during the year ended July 1 Ohio had either graduated or retained under training more than 45,000 men schooled for production jobs in defense industry.

"Never in the history of the state has vocational training become such a vital part of the school program," Dietrich asserted. "It is hard to estimate the number of trainees who have entered employment, but a fair estimate is that by Sept 1 more than one-half of them will have found a place in industry.

"The entire program is fine. The national emergency has only directed attention to a type of training which has been sorely needed for a long time. We have been slow to catch up, but now that a definite need has been established I hope that this particular type of training will continue to occupy its rightful place in the school program."

Three separate programs—all under Dietrich's supervision — have been inaugurated since funds first were made available July 1, 1940. To date $2,289,965 has been allocated to Ohio.

In the urban phase, 61 communities have established schools—30 of them on a 24-hour day basis—for both supplementary training of working men and initial instruction of students. Total enrollment in both was 25,820. Courses were financed by federal grants of $1,588,096 for instruction and $393,646 for supplies and equipment.

Another course, for persons who had completed school but were unemployed, numbered 116 training centers, with a year's enrollment of 4,113. For this the government allowed $303,194, including $128,000 for equipment

The latest venture was utilization of national youth administration facilities to train 15,140 at a cost of $398,675 NYA courses have been established in 51 counties

"We look forward to even further expansion during the present fiscal year," Dietrich asserted. "We have not yet been informed of our new allocation, but the appropriation measure has been approved, and there will be no letdown anywhere along the line."

Crime Dropping? Receipts In Muny Court Fall Off

If receipts of the municipal court are any indication of how much crime Mansfield experiences, June was a lighter month than usual. Isabel Gerstmeyer, deputy court clerk, reported yesterday that receipts dropped $337.35 during June

A total of $2,673 09 was taken in payments of fines in June while $3,010 44 was collected in May. Criminal cases accounted for $2,245 75 of the June receipts while civil fines brought $427.34

Of the revenue, Mansfield received $1,749 19 during the past month while $1,124 was distributed to state and county funds. Last month the city received $1,900.29.

Funds received by the city included fines and costs for city cases, $223 50; traffic forfeitures, $508; State Highway patrol cases, $335; costs for state cases, $254.85; and civil cases $427.34.

Other agencies receiving parts of the court's receipts include state treasurer, $17.50; state liquor department, $17 50; State Highway patrol, $335; and law library, $553 40

There'll be plenty of noise and shooting and flashes of fire at the Fairground home of the Braves tonight, but it'll all be from plain and fancy fireworks of the Fourth of July variety only, and NOT from the explosions of irate ball players at confused umpires.

The umps will be far, far away which makes this holiday a success at the start.

Bob Nehring, Fostoria catcher sold to the Detroit Tigers' Winston-Salem farm club, comes close to being model athlete according to my operative in Red Bird town who informs me:

"Bob doesn't smoke, he doesn't drink, he doesn't even chew ball players' 'lickrish' and he's scared to death of girls. He'll run if he sees one approaching with that gleam in the eye."

The rifle arm of Slingin' Steve has been pressed into hill service this year by Flint of the Michigan State league with such good effect that Gromek has won seven straight games.

And the Flints are leading the league by 7½ games, just slightly over the margin supplied by the former Brave.

Bill Snypp, Lima News sport editor has joined the hue and cry about the "putrid umpiring" in the Ohio State league, and demands that something be done about it by Proxy Joe Donnelly before the second-half season gets far under way.

He agrees with this department that Bill Ward "and possibly his partner, Rohl" is the only member of Donnelly's staff capable of working in this league.

Ward, on his last trip to Mansfield, reported he and Rohl have not had to ask a fine or suspension of any player this season. "I see no reason for the epidemic of fines and suspensions that has hit this league," Ward declared.

Having been spared the sad sight of his brothers in blue performing their chores, Bill wouldn't know that in many cases the fines and suspensions are merely the alibis used by the other thumb wavers for their own incompetence.

They've got to blame somebody.

Favorites Win Matches

McNeill, Riggs, and Grant Move Along.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— Between rains, the Southern Tennis tournament is progressing into the quarterfinals.

Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, the national amateur champion and seeded No. 1, played two matches yesterday, while defending Champion Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, Bobby Riggs of Chicago and Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., finished one match each before rain halted play.

Richard Hart and George Pero, both of Miami, were McNeill's victims. The Oklahoman beat Hart 6-0, 6-2; and Pero 6-2, 6-2.

Riggs, seeded behind McNeill, disposed of Warfield Donohue of Louisville, 6-4, 6-3; and was ahead 4-3 in the first set with George Ball of El Paso, Texas, when rain stopped play.

Grant beat Jack Teagle, a fellow Atlantan, 6-4, 6-3, while third seeded Mulloy advanced over Les Caskey of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-0.

Two upsets marked yesterday's play. Billy Gillespie of Atlanta, sixth seeded, yielded to Don Buffington, also of Atlanta, after a hard three-set match, 4-6, 11-9, 6-1, and Dick McKee of Miami, seventh seeded in the draw, bowed to Larry Dee of San Francisco, a former western boys champion, 8-6, 4-6, 6-1.

All doubles matches were rained out.

In the girls' division, Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, advanced over Gloria Thompson of St. Louis, 6-2, 7-5, and Ann Barstrow of Cleveland beat Madie Cameron of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 9-7, 6-1.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Bob Montgomery, 137, Philadelphia, stopped Frankie Wallace, 140, Cleveland (3).

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Lou Brooks, 176, Wilmington, outpointed Charlie Brant, 184½, Pittsburgh (8).

TAMPA, Fla.—Joe Legon, 147, Havana, Cuba, stopped Eddie Carroll, 152, New York (1).

Old Man Mose Ain't Dead

Bob Grove Hurls 299th Big League Victory.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WHEN the great pitchers of all time in baseball are recalled, Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove always will have a place on the honor roll.

He is 41 years old, leathery cheeked and with greying hair, but he still is a winning pitcher and yesterday he achieved the 299th triumph of his long and memorable career.

He subdued the Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 2 for the beleaguered Boston Red Sox, who needed the victory desperately. It wasn't an imposing performance like Grove gave in the days when he had a fire ball and was striking out 200 batters a season. The A's tagged him for ten hits and only two struck out.

But he was just as effective as if he had been throwing a blazing fast ball right by the batters. With perfect control, he didn't walk a man, and kept the foe scoreless except in the fifth inning when Dick Siebert's triple was followed by two singles and a fly.

Jim Tabor hit a three-run double in the first inning to give the veteran a nice sendoff and Ted Williams homered with one on in the eighth.

Grove, taking plenty of rest between starts, has won six games and lost only two this season. When he reaches the 300-victory goal he will be one of 12 pitchers to accomplish the feat and the first since Grover Cleveland Alexander.

This was the only game in the American league yesterday as other teams rested for the big Fourth of July program.

The action in the National league was confined to two contests with the Chicago Cubs nosing out the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 and the Boston Braves beating the Phillies 4-1.

Both Chicago runs were unearned as the Cardinals nullified the five-hit pitching of Max Lanier and Howard Krist by making three errors. Claude Passeau also pitched five-hit ball, and drove in the deciding run with a single in the seventh.

* * *

The defeat dropped St. Louis back into a tie with the idle Brooklyn Dodgers for the National league lead.

Boston's triumph was scored behind the five-hit hurling of young Al Javery, who held the Phillies scoreless until the eighth.

Private Fued Carries on

Feller and Browns Tangle Again Today.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A little feud between Bob Feller and Luke Sewell's St. Louis Browns popped up today in the first game of today's doubleheader.

Feller went to the mound in search of his 17th victory, just as he did last Monday in St. Louis, when the Browns gave him his fourth defeat.

As it stood before today's game, the Brown's vs. Feller arguments was two and two, giving St. Louis a chance to earn an edge over the fireballer. The White Sox won from him in the season's opener, but he hasn't faced them since.

Johnny Niggeling was cheduled to hurl for St. Louis in the front end of the twin bill, and Bob Harris was sent against southpaw Al Milnar for the other.

Roy Weatherly, who was suspended by Manager Roger Peckinpaugh in St. Louis Tuesday night for not hustling, visited Vice President C. C. Slapnicka yesterday, but "I told Roy he would have to make his peace with Peck before he could be reinstated," said Slapnicka.

Soup Campbell is taking Weatherly's place in center field

TULSA, Okla. —(AP)— Millard "Dixie" Howell, Tulsa Oiler shortstop and head football coach at Arizona State Teachers college, was released outright last night by the Texas league baseball club.

Howell has been in a fielding slump in recent weeks and his batting average was only .234 up to last week.

Millers Still Do All Right

Increase Lead In Flag Chase, Beating Saints.

(By Associated Press)

For a team which has lost such stars as Zeke Bonura and Angelo Guiliani, the Minneapolis Millers have been going all right in this season's American Association pennant race.

The Millers yesterday defeated St. Paul 8 to 6. The victory cinched for the Millers the honor of playing host to the association all-star team in the annual battle July 15, the game being awarded the city leading the league after games of today, July 4.

Minneapolis, by its victory yesterday, also increased its growing lead in the pennant fight, continuing a streak of winning baseball which did not break when Bonura, just about the hottest hitter in the circuit, left for the army some time back, and also refused to crack when Brooklyn recently recalled Guiliana, a fine young catcher.

The Miller victory was the ninth win for Minneapolis over the Saints this season as against three defeats. Ab Wright's hitting featured the contest, the Miller slugger knocking three homers.

Toledo scored five runs in the last of the ninth to pull its game with Columbus out of the fire, the Mud Hens downing the Red Birds, 10 to 9. Steven's homer with one on was a potent blow of Toledo's ninth inning rally.

Louisville and Indianapolis staged a close battle, with Louisville winning 2 to 0 as Judd bested Cox in a pitching duel. Judd allowed seven hits as his mates collected eight. Al Mazer, 22-year-old Louisville second sacker, cracked a double in the seventh to drive home both Colonel runs.

Kansas City got back in the winner's circle by defeating Milwaukee 11 to 9, in a game which saw the Brewers rally for four runs in the last two frames. In the ninth Lou Novikoff homered for Milwaukee with a mate on base.

The schedule and probable pitchers:

St. Paul (Lanahan) at Minneapolis (Nesseth) morning.

Minneapolis (Kelley) at St. Paul (Swift, afternoon.

Louisville (Sayles and Butland; at Indianapolis (Starr and Logan) afternoon games.

Kansas City (Reis and Barley) at Milwaukee (Balser and Moran) afternoon games.

Columbus (Dickinson and Brecheen at Toledo (Parmalee and Kimberlin) twilight and night games.

Name-Horses Chosen as Hollywood Favorites.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Challedon and Mioland, each figuratively sporting a question mark for a lavaliere, run for the money against 11 rivals today in the $20,000 American handicap at Hollywood Park.

The two name-horses, racing for the first time this summer and both pointing toward the big Hollywood gold cup July 19, spotted the field no less than nine pounds. Few handicappers gave either much chance of living up to his prestige; maybe July 19, but not today.

Challenging them in this mile and one-eighth jaunt was a strong array—Big Pebble, Get Off, Sir Jeffrey, King Torch, Sweepida, Woof Woof, Ship Biscuit, No Competition, Mr. Grundy, Royal Crusader and Mount Vernon II.

Edward S. Moore, Wyoming ranchman, owns Big Pebble, Get Off and Ship Biscuit. The Pebble and Get Off ran one-two in the Widener Cup last winter. Motion Picture Executive Louis B. Mayer sent two chargers into the fray in the highly regarded Sir Jeffrey and King Torch.

Woof Woof and No Competition, owned by Hurst Philpot and Bernard Robinson of Los Angeles, offered another double threat.

Turf experts granted Challedon and Mioland were the class of the field, and rated Challedon up by himself if he had recovered from a hoof injury. It hurt him at Santa Anita last winter, so he went unplaced in two races against competition he ordinarily could whip without taking off his blanket.

Victory for the Maryland-bred Ex-King would bring his all-time earnings into third place of winning horses, trailing just behind Sun Beau, who trails Seabiscuit.

Today's purse wasn't everything to W. L. Brann, Challedon's owner. Brann wants him to win that $75,000 gold cup for the second successive year. He wants to prove that Challedon is once again stake king of the American turf.

Ellison Quits As Bird Pilot

FOSTORIA — Len Ellison of Blair, Wis., former Philadelphia Phillies infielder, resigned today as manager of the last place Fostoria club of the Ohio State league and Charles (Chuck) Cronin, a pitcher, was named to pilot the team during the second half of the split season.

Ellison who came here from Winnipeg of the Northern league played shortstop and second base. The club finished the first half of the Ohio State league race with victories in but one-third of their games winning 16 and losing 32.

Cronin, whose home is in Fostoria, broke into organized baseball with Tiffin of the Ohio State league in 1936. He was with Springfield in the Three-I league for four seasons and last winter was sold to Meridian in the Southeastern league.

The new Fostoria manager started the season with considerable success but developed a sore arm and was sent home two weeks ago. Cronin will direct the Red Birds from the bench until his arm is in shape again and then will take his turn on the mound.

Market Wise Rules Choice

Goes Postward as Bet Favorite In Yankee.

BOSTON —(AP)— Market Wise, runner-up to Whirlaway in the Kentucky derby, was expected to go postward the favorite today in the seventh running of the $25,000 Yankee handicap, a mile and three sixteenths test for three-year-olds at Suffolk Downs.

Three other derby starters—Blue Pair, Robert Morris and Our Boots—also are scheduled to face the barrier in a field of eight colts and a lone filley, Breckinridge Long's Nasca.

A holiday crowd of 35,000 race fans was forecast for the event. Woodvale Farm's Our Boots was assigned top weight of 122 pounds. Market Wise, owned by Louis Fufano, and J. Fred Byer's Robert Morris each will carry 121 pounds. Mrs. Vera Bragg's Blue Pair was lightly weighed at 117 pounds.

The other four slated starters, all given an outside chance of toppling the derby veterans, are Mrs. H. Teller Archibald's Boston Man, R. P. Headley's Crowfoot, C. V. Whitney's Yankee Chance and the Green Tree Stable's Swing and Sway.

FAMOUS PRO THINKS LENGLEN BEST OF ALL

CHICAGO—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen rates as the greatest woman tennis player of all time in the opinion of Karel Kozeluh, professional star.

OHIO ANGLERS OPEN THREE-DAY TOURNEY

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Ohio Association of Angling and Casting Clubs opened a three-day, 18-event tournament today at Twin Lakes Casting club.

Payoff Clouts Boost Value

Low-Average Hitters Connect In Pinch.

NEW YORK—There's a saying that figures don't lie. But sometimes they can be deceiving. For instance, you probably wouldn't think that a ball player with a batting average in the .260's was any great shucks as a hitter.

But there's where you can be wrong. Bill Nicholson of the Chicago Cubs, sporting an insignificant .267, leads the National loop in runs batted in—and RBI is the payoff symbol on a hitter's value. It shows the ability to bang one when it counts.

* * *

The same situation exists in the American league. Charlie Keller of the Yankees, with an apparently puny average in the .270's is pacing the circuit in RBI. Ted Williams of the Boston batting pace, with a average over .400 but he hasn't driven in as many as Keller.

A number of players who habitually author season batting averages under the select .300 line are actually of more offensive value to their teams than the lads with impresive .330 marks.

Take the cases of Cecil Travis of the Senators and Dolph Camilli of the Dodgers. Both have been in the majors eight years. Travis has a lifetime batting average of .322 while Camilli's is only .285. Yet Dolph has knocked in 660 runs to Travis's 490. He has hit 171 home runs to Cecil's 18 and 65 triples to the Washington infielders 54. He won't get as many hits as Travis but he hits a longer ball and connects more often when there are ducks on the pond.

CHANGE SIGNALS

SEATTLE —(AP)— Los Angeles and Seattle baseball teams had to figure on swiping a brand new set of signals when they clashed at Seattle recently.

Reason: Seattle traded catcher Gilly Campbell to Los Angeles for catcher Bob "Rip" Collins, so both Coast league teams had to rig up new sets of signals.

Bud Ward Has Narrow Squeak

Comes Back To Beat Veteran Omaha Star.

By LOUDON KELLY

COLORADO SPRINGS—(AP)—A double order of golf fireworks, served up in today's Independence day car at the 42nd western amateur tournament with two sets of 18-hole matches, will hammer the field down to four finalists by sundown at Broadmoor's mountain layout.

Ward, 1939 national amateur king from Spokane, Wash., found himself trailing by three holes on the 14th yesterday, then struck back with two pars and two birdies for a 1-up victory over Rodney Bliss, Omaha veteran. He drew Warren Berl, Stanford and San Francisco performer, in today's second round.

Todd, 1939 western winner from Dallas, rolled over Lyman Wright, Colorado Springs ex-bronco buster, with his prodigious hitting attack, 7 and 6, and drew Claude Wright, young Denver plasterer, today in the bracket opposite Ward's.

The tournament exploded plenty of fireworks a day ahead of the Fourth. In addition to Ward's subpar, uphill triumph, there were three 20-hole matches—one producing three birdies and an eagle in the two added holes — and sizzling underpar shooting by tennis professional Ellsworth Vines and 18-year-old Frank Stranahan, stevedore-shouldered transmississippi champion from Toledo, Ohio.

Berl beat Bob Goldwater of Phoenix, Ariz., in the first "extra inning" encounter. John Butts, Wichita, Kas., automobile dealer, fired an eagle three against Tom Stephenson's birdie on the 464-yard 20th after he and the Kansas Citian both birdied the 19th. The third 20-hole victory went to Harry Missildine, Tulsa, Okla., youngster, at the expense of Glenn Oatman of Kansas City, former Missouri champion.

Vines breezed across the Cheyenne mountain slopes in one under par for a somewhat surprising 2-and-1 verdict over Marshall Carlson, University of Toledo golfer who is one of Ohio's top amateurs.

Stranahan, who said "I like weight lifting as much as golf" and has muscles to prove it, was two under par in a smoking 6-and-5 victory over Ray Brownell, Stanford sophomore from Carmel, Calif.

HOLD ANNUAL AQUATENNIAL ON SATURDAY

Competitors Vie In 450-Mile Canoe Race on Treacherous Minnesota River.

(By Special News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS — Over the stream their forefathers named 'Father of Waters," modern Indians will vie with paleface competitors beginning Saturday in a back-breaking 450-mile canoe race for gold and glory.

It's a feature of the summer carnival called the Aquatennial.

In picking the Tortuous river from Bemidji, Minn., to Minneapolis to stage an annual event to test men's skill as a fitting opener for the carnival, the sponsors almost chose too well, if last year's inaugural was a fair sample.

The big river is tougher from a canoeing viewpoint than in early days, for the stream has been cut up by power dams. That means back water, conflicting channels and brutal portages.

So they got their endurance test, all right. They also got some hospital cases from blood poisoning, maimed hands, sunstroke and sheer exhaustion.

So they have softened the race by marking the course, providing food, lodging and a trainer to treat sunburn, shock, blisters, insect bites, cramped muscles and other ailments for the "ten days of hades."

Last year's initial run approached catastrophe several times. Canoes upset crossing storm-swept Lake Winnibigoshish. Two crews were missing for several hours.

Judges trying to keep track of the contestants had many other narrowing hours because they lost sight of several teams in winding through swampy areas. Lack of communication in the isolated headwater country region also heightened the apprehension.

Promoters now realize they attempted something altogether too difficult. They are just grateful that consequences were not tragic.

Temperatures ranged upward to 110 degrees. Violent storms lashed the contestants. Insects plagued them.

Down the stretch it was a finish fight between brothers, Ace and Ed Eliason, Grand Rapids, Minn., woodsmen and guides. They fought it out with Chippewa Indian brothers from Ballclub, Minn., Harry and Bud Tibbetts. The white men won in the last five miles.

Back are coming those toughened guides, too, although college boys, factory workers and clerks will be on hand to make a bid for fame and cash and test those merciless pulls along 19 hour stretches and daily distances ranging upward to 89 miles.

There will be more Indians than last year, Indians hearing about the $2,000 in cash prizes and tons of clothing and equipment, plus sponsors' pay. The red men spiced the race last year by tantalizing the plodding whites who told how the Indians would disappear in the marsh areas, slipaway in the reeds, on short cuts and re-appear miles down the river, far ahead of the pack.

The Chippewas enjoyed the contest, particularly when the palefaces got trapped in the rapids. The husky greenhorns, capable in a park canoe with a blonde at their feet, tried to powerhouse their way out of the bad spots and snapped paddles like toothpicks, losing precious time and endangering their craft and even their lives.

The field this year will be more formidable and even some of the distant Canadians have heard of the rewards available. There is Willard Jack, Bear River, N. S. timber scaler and self announced Nova Scotia canoe champion, and Watson Peck, farmer-guide, same address. Don Mathieson, log roller and guide, and Cleo Gaudry, resort operator, both from Kenora, Ontario, will comprise another team.

The contestants try for sponsors to help pay the freight. Canoes bear painted signs about everything from dog food to doughnuts.

"Yes," said Ed Shave, Minneapolis sports writer, who helped judge last year's race, "and I saw the time when delirious paddlers tried to make a lunch from a sponsor's food sign." It's that tough.

FORMER GALION MAN SUCCUMBS

GALION — Word has reached Galion of the death of Dr. Howard Hackedorn, 55, at Pullman, Washington.

Dr. Hackedorn who was professor of animal husbandry at Washington State college at Pullman, was a son of the late Dr. Melvin R. Hackedorn and Mrs. Alenia (Duck) Hackedorn, and spent his boyhood days in Galion, graduating from Galion high school in the class of 1905. He had been at Pullman for about 30 years.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Juanita Schuler of Columbus, Missouri, and two children; Dr. Howard Melvin Hackedorn of Seattle, Washington, and Mrs. Marshall Allen Neill of Pullman, Washington; his mother, Mrs. Alenia Hackedorn and two sisters, Marion and Bertha Hackedorn, all of Brooklyn, New York. The Galion home of the mother and daughters is at 234 Orange street.

RECIPE FOR OLD AGE

SCRANTON, Pa.—(INS)—Mrs. Harriet Freeman ascribes her 93 years to early retiring and early rising, plenty of hardy food, but no cake or pie. When she celebrated her birthday recently, she even shunned a nibble of her birthday cake.

DAMAGE SUITS SEEK $20,500

Three Actions Filed After Auto Accident Near Shiloh; All Claim Injuries.

Three damage suits for a total of $20,500 had been filed today in common pleas court against Arthur L. Dewey, Shiloh, as the result of a traffic accident last March 19 in northern Richland county.

An action for $15,000 damages was filed by Mrs. Anna Mae Johnson of Shiloh who contends she received serious injuries when the car in which she was a passenger figured in a collision with one driven by Dewey.

Other suits for $5,000 and $500 were filed by Joe Price and Ethel Price, respectively, for injuries they received in the crash.

The plaintiffs accuse Dewey of negligence in allegedly failing to observe a stop sign at the intersection of state route 61 and county road 215 and making a left turn without warning.

WANTS IN ARMY

Girl Requests Senator's Aid For Place In Service.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Red-haired 23-year-old Irene Staskiewicz wants to become a soldier.

The attractive young woman is so in earnest that she wrote Sen. James M. Mead to arrange her enlistment and offered a barrage of arguments in support of her plan.

Ever since conscription began, Miss Staskiewicz has been eager to do her bit for national defense, and she says five of her girl friends would join her in the army "at the drop of a hat or a registration card." She emphatically disagrees with the theory that women are not good army material.

SHOE SIZE DELAYS RECRUIT

LAFAYETTE, Cal.—(U.P.)—Uncle Sam will not get a full year's service from Pvt. Roy Mangini during his year in the army. Mangini wears a 13½ shoe and the army had to let him loaf until a pair of shoes that size could be obtained.

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XXXI

"You'll not put up with that forever, Amy," Cherry said seriously. Amy's sensitive face flushed; the eyes of the two girls met in a long look.

"No: I know I won't," Amy said quickly.

"You'll want to come back some day," Cherry went on.

"I know." Amy's whisper was almost inaudible. "He doesn't deny that he wouldn't have married me if it hadn't been for the money," she said. "He keeps asking if there isn't some mistake."

"Then why not try, Amy, since money will make a difference, why not try putting this plan to him. All his debts paid, and an allowance that will be enough as long as he behaves himself?"

Amy sat staring into space, her lips tightly closed.

"I'd pay it all back," she said suddenly.

"You don't have to. If your marriage works out, why it's all right," Cherry argued, "and if it isn't, you can't give him a great cut of the fortune because it won't be yours."

"Then — then people wouldn't be able to laugh at us." Amy said slowly. "That's — that's what waked me up in the night, and started me thinking until I was afraid I'd lose my mind! No one need know."

"No one will know. And if some time you get a divorce, Amy," Cherry said, "it'll be just one of thousands, and all this needn't come into it at all."

A silence. Then Amy said, "But why should you do this, Cherry?"

"Oh, why shouldn't I?" Cherry asked in return. "I want to. I'll never feel that I'm really Amelia Marshbanks any more than you'll ever feel that you're Charlotte Rawlings. It'll always seem as much yours as mine, and I think that's the way—that's the way, perhaps," Cherry went on, suddenly shy, "that he — that our father—would want it to be."

"After all we are sisters, and so it's not fair," Amy said, with a return of her sullen manner.

"Amy," Cherry said suddenly. The other girl looked up wearily and without hope. "You wouldn't want Gogo to go away and leave you?" Cherry asked. "You wouldn't want to end it all here and now?"

She had gone too far. Amy's head went up in anger and pride.

"Why, of course I wouldn't!" she said coldly. "I'm his wife. I'm the Countess Constantino, after all. And I know Gogo! He's all upset now, and it's enough to upset anyone! A murder in the house and the police questioning him—No, we'll work it out some way," Amy finished, rising, "without your help, Cherry, but many thanks to you just the same."

* * *

The next visitor, unannounced, was old Mrs. Marshbanks. She came in carrying her knitting, spoke quietly to Cherry as if this were the most natural procedure in the world, and seated herself comfortably near the bed.

"Amy came into my room a few minutes ago," said the old lady, "to tell me that you had made her a very generous offer."

"She won't accept it," Cherry told her.

"She may not have any choice," said her grandmother dryly. "She mentioned it to him, and I gathered that it made a big difference in his plans. Amy's married now to a man in whose country women don't count at all. He'll accept or he'll refuse things, he'll do the deciding, from now on."

* * *

Cherry's face brightened as Kelly appeared in the doorway. He spoke to the old lady, asking her solicitiously of her health and rest, but all the time he was seated close beside Cherry's bed, and her languid hand was safe in his.

"All right again, dear?" he presently said.

"Oh, Kelly, feeling so wonderful! I had a long sleep after you left, and lunch—I could get up and do a day's washing!" Cherry exulted. "Did you go to Topcote?"

"I did, and I had a shower and a nap and a steak, and I'm in the pink too. What's this I hear of you turning fairy godmother to Gogo?"

"Who told you?"

"Gogo. He was down on the sidewalk looking for a taxi when I arrived; he said it was important for him to get downtown and send some cables at once. I offered him my car and asked him if he'd had good news. He said yes, that you had seen the unfairness of the situation for his poor little 'Timee,' and in simple justice you had offered to make reparation."

"Reparation!" the old woman said on an indignant gasp.

"So what have you been up to, Marchioness?" Kelly demanded.

Cherry laughed. "I made Amy a proposition. Nobody's ever going to know it," she said, "but after all, we're sisters."

"How do you mean, 'Nobody's going to know it'?" Mrs. Marshbanks demanded in her deep voice.

"That Amy and I are sisters; that our father was Frederick Marshbanks, that I'm she and Amy's I."

"You mean you think you can keep all that a secret?" There was complete incredulity in Mrs. Marshbanks' tone.

"Why not? It's been a secret all these years," Cherry said.

"But, my dear child, there'll have to be immense transfers of property, restitution, back payments, everything!"

"There won't have to be any restitution or back payments," Cherry said positively. "And, for everything else, lawyers keep secrets."

"But good heavens, child, that means that you'll go on being—that Amy — Mr. Coates," Dora Marshbanks interrupted herself to say agitatedly, "I don't think we can permit that! That would mean — Cherry's position — her background has never been what Amy's was. She has a right—in the eyes of society . . ."

"Nothing like that matters to me at all," Cherry interposed calmly, as the other woman's words broke off in confusion. "Does it Kelly?" she demanded.

"Well, really, Marchioness," Kelly said, "I'm a good deal at a loss to know what does matter to you!"

"You have a right to a certain position, Cherry," the older woman said. "But, my dear, if there was any way in which we could spare Amy—!" she broke off pitifully. "If we could spare Amy . . ."

"It seems to me we can spare Amy a great deal without giving up anything I want," Cherry said.

"Personally I don't exactly see why you should pay 25 or 30 thousand dollars out for Constantino's old debts and promises," Kelly observed.

"Because Amy promised him that when she honestly thought she had it, Kelly. It's there, and a lot more. And I don't mean to touch the capital," Cherry argued. "I mean just to give her an allowance, a certain sum to be paid every month. And then, if he's mean to her, he knows it stops when she leaves him."

"Like your father. He was generosity itself," the old woman murmured, under her breath.

"It's an unusual — attitude," Kelly said.

"It's her only chance of happiness with him," Cherry went on. "And as for our names, she's a Constantino now, anyway, and pretty soon I'll be a Coates, So who bother?"

"When are you two going to be married?" Mrs. Marshbanks asked.

"Next week," announced Cherry. Kelly still held her hands; as he smiled across at her grandmother he slightly shook his head.

"Years from now," he said "I'm not going to run off with her before she has a chance to enjoy her new fortune. It won't last forever the way she's disposing of it. I'll wait until she needs me."

"I need you now," Cherry moved her free hand to hold his in both her own.

"I think she does," said Mrs. Marshbanks. "I hope you'll take care of her and the money too, and give her years of happiness that she's never had. My own plan is to move from this house when this dreadful business is over," she added, "and live somewhere quietly. Now that Amy's gone, I have no one left."

"You have me," Cherry reminded her, "and with Gogo or without him, Amy'll be back. And there's Greg—he'll soon be out of college—and all his children some day, and ours."

To this the old woman made no answer. She looked steadily at Cherry, and for the first time Cherry saw the proud old mouth tremble and the hard grey eyes fill with tears.

"If you will come to see us in Sauaslito—I mean when Cherry's had time for her fling . . ." Kelly began. Cherry silenced him with a look.

"Christmas dinner this year," she announced. "We'll have Greg. We'll kill that turkey that tore my stocking, Kelly."

"I never expected in this life to ask anyone to forgive me, my dear," said old Dora Marshbanks; "I ask you now."

"I hope you don't do anything of the kind!" Cherry said, scarlet. She sat up, her arms outstretched, and her grandmother, who had left her chair, stooped and they kissed each other.

"Well," Kelly said, "I came in here with news this afternoon, ladies. Dreadful news, and yet news that is going to be a relief to us all. The mystery is over. They have made — or they are making at this moment—an arrest."

"Fran!" both women whispered together.

"Not Fran, no. But Fran knew all the time—What's that?"

A scream, dreadful in its high-pitched violence; a woman's voice shrieking, "No, no, no!" had rung through the quiet of the late afternoon. Kelly abruptly left the room. There was a moment's terrible silence, and then Fran's voice, hysterical and choked with tears: "No, no, no! They shan't! My darling, they shan't! You didn't do it! I did!"

Then silence again except for a low, indistinguishable murmur of men's voices downstairs. Cherry and old Mrs. Marshbanks remained motionless, their eyes fixed on each other. The older woman had collapsed into her chair, her face was ghastly.

After an endless moment Kelly, breathless, came back into the room, his face grave.

"They've arrested Fran?" Cherry managed to ask.

"No, not Fran. They told me twenty minutes ago, after they had him," Kelly said. "But they asked me to wait for half an hour and to be with you and Mrs. Marshbanks when they made the arrest, and told Fran. No; we've all been blind as bats, Cherry. It was right under our eyes, all the time. It was Rousseau."

"Rousseau!" the old woman's voice held resonance, like a bell.

"Rousseau!" Cherry whispered.

Kelly spoke quietly, shrugging, his arm about Cherry.

"He and Fran have been lovers for months," he said.

"Kelly, he's a boy! He's not twenty!"

"He's eighteen. But he gave his age as twenty when the judge hired him about a year ago."

* * *

"Their affair began back in April," Kelly went on. "From the very first she liked him, made a friend of him. He fell madly in love with her, of course; that wasn't strange. But Fran became completely infatuated with him too. Perhaps she hadn't counted on that. They began to plan days in the country; she just mothering him at first, advising him. And then, a few months ago, she gave in, and since then—poor girl!—I imagine she hasn't had a comfortable moment. He was the stronger—Mullins told me all this an hour ago when I came back—he was the stronger, and whenever he suspected anything like lovemaking between her and the judge or anyone else he threatened to kill her and himself. Fran played the game as well as she could, lied about what she'd been doing, spent her time with him whenever the judge was away. Nobody ever questioned her."

CENTURY-OLD HARP

EASTON, Pa.—(INS)—The Northampton County Historical Society of Easton, recently acquired a portable harp, believed to be more than 100 years old. The harp, like many antiques in unreconstructed stages, is a handmade affair of walnut and is roughly four and one-half feet high. Originally it had 36 strings but only a few remain intact and give an unenthusiastic "plunk" when plucked. The pegs that hold the strings are made of hand-wrought iron.

THEATERS

Navy Comedy.

"In the Navy," a hilarious comedy which returns Bud Abbott and Lou Costello of "Buck Privates" fame to the Ohio screen Saturday, co-stars Dick Powell and features a line-up of talent that precludes anything but action every minute. The Andrews Sisters, Dick Foran, and Claire Dodd are in the supporting cast of the picture which stars Powell as a radio crooner. Weary of the adulation of the nation's femininity, Powell disappears and secretly joins the navy. His trail is picked up by Claire Dodd as a newspaper woman and she plays a game of tag with him that eventually leads to Honolulu.

Cinderella Theme.

"Million Dollar Baby," opening Saturday at the Madison, stars beautiful Priscilla Lane and Ronald Reagan, the sweethearts in "Four Daughters," in the heart-warming adventures of a working girl who suddenly falls heir to a million dollars. When she goes beserk on a buying expedition she is taken in hand by a wealthy old woman, played by May Robson, and is shown how to conduct herself like a debutante. The cast includes Helen Westley, Jeffrey Lynn, and George Barbier. "Hit the Road," the co-attraction, features the Dead End Kids.

Aldrich Escapade.

Like in all Henry Aldrich stories the hero meets up with misadventure in "Life With Father," current attraction at the Ritz, when he attempts to earn money for a trip to Alaska. In the first place he must get three reputable business men to vouch for his character before he can enter the contest and his efforts to do so are generally misconstrued. Other complications also present themselves but Jackie Cooper, in the title role, manages to come out the winner in the end. Don "Red" Barry appears in the second feature, "A Phantom Cowboy."

Southern Saga.

"Robin Hood of the Pecos," starring Roy Rogers at the Park, deals with post-Civil war days when the southern states, struggling for economic rehabilitation, were plagued by unscrupulous politicians and carpet baggers. Rogers, as a young Confederate soldier, musters up citizen resistance against this oppression. George "Gabby" Hayes is featured along with Sally Payne. Presenting Warner Baxter, the companion picture, "Adam Had Four Sons," has a stellar cast including Ingrid Bergman and Susan Hayward.

Western Thriller.

Wild Bill Hickok swings into action against a lawless frontier in "Hands Across the Rockies," showing at the Majestic, with Mary Daily in the feminine lead. As the legendary gun-fighter whose exploits wrote a new chapter in the bullet-filled west, Bill Elliott comes to the aid of a woman being forced by her family to marry a murderer. "San Antonio Rose," Film No. 2, is a merry melange of fun and music, with the Merry Macs, Eve Arden, Lon Chaney, jr., and Shemp Howard.

Edwin Arlington Robinson was the only poet to win the Pulitzer prize on three different occasions.

AND, OF COURSE, SINCE IT WAS STOLEN SHE HAD NO REASON TO LOOK FOR AN AD IN THE LOST AND FOUND COLUMN!
THAT WAS IT! SHE'D REPORTED IT TO THE POLICE!
BUT, HOW ON EARTH DID YOU FIND HER?
I HAPPENED TO REMEMBER THAT POLICE OFFICER SAID THERE WERE SEVERAL ROBBERIES OF DIFFERENT SUMS ON THAT DATE - SO I THOUGHT I'D SEE IF ANY OF THEM COULD POSSIBLY BE OF THE AMOUNT I FOUND - AND THERE WAS ONE - EXACTLY THAT SUM!
SO THAT'S HOW YOU LOCATED HER! CLEVER DETECTIVE WORK, PAMELA!
IT'S MARY BLAIN
DO YOU KNOW I KEEP THINKING I'VE SEEN THAT POOR GIRL SOMEWHERE - DIDN'T CATCH HER NAME - WHAT IS IT?
MARY BLAIN - MARY BLAIN!!! WHY, OF COURSE! WELL, WELL!!- I WONDER IF IT POSSIBLY CAN BE?

WANTED FOLKS WHO NEED $20 TO $500 TO INVESTIGATE OUR LOAN PLAN

Rates are not the same at all loan companies. We publish our payments and our rate of charge to help you shop for a loan.

Loans are made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No endorsers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances to $301 and ½% monthly over $300—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE IN ARMY HINTED

Move Seen in Request to Hold Guardsmen and Selectees In Longer Service.

tion in the war, and Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) charged that the administration planned to use American troops to occupy Iceland.

All this immediate reaction presaged a lively legislative fight, for congressional approval would be necessary on both points. The selective service act, as it now stands, fixes a year as the length of service and bans use of selectees outside of the hemisphere, except in American possessions. The same provisions occur in the legislation authorizing mobilization of the national guard.

Officials close to the war department said that the high command, in making its twin requests, merely was asking congress for a free hand to act decisively if and when military considerations should demand. They said that modern warfare was not charitable to delay, and that conceivably circumstances might arise when the time required to change the laws would be costly.

Furthermore, they said, regular army units now contain a number of selectees. Under the present law, they pointed out, if such units were ordered out of the hemisphere for an emergency, they would have to leave selectees behind, thus reducing the unit's strength and breaking up trained combat teams.

For the most part, congressmen concentrated on the guardsmen and selectee phases of the high command's request. Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, also sought the power to extend the service of reserve officers.

Rep. Thomason (D., Tex.), ranking majority member of the house military committee, said he opposed both major suggestions because there appeared to be no need for them. But he said he would qualify that statement regarding the national guardsmen.

"The original idea of the selective service act was to rotate the training by keeping the boys in only one year and that would not be possible under Marshall's suggestions," Thomason said. "Of course, the guardsmen went into service with their eyes wide open."

(Some military men held a different view regarding selectees now in training. They said selectees automatically become reservists at the end of their year's service, and might be continued on duty as reservists, thus permitting the induction of new trainees who cannot number more than 900,000 in one year.)

Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) opposed using selectees outside of the western hemisphere. "Until congress, representing the people, declares war—and I doubt that congress ever will—our army should stay in western hemisphere," he said.

"In extending training period, the president should tell us how big an army he considers necessary over the 1,500,000 now provided. It would be a complete usurpation of power for the president to send troops outside this hemisphere without a declaration of war."

On the other hand, Senator Hill (D.-Ala.), acting majority leader, said he expected the army's request.

"The necessities of the situation require such a request, and I favor granting it," he told newsmen. "We can't build an army in a year's time, then demobilize it and start building a new one. Danger certainly is as great as last September, when we first mobilized, and it is impractical to start all over again with new recruits. Now that we've built a machine we can't afford to destroy it. I favor guarding and protecting the interests of the United States wherever that interest may be, regardless of geographical lines of hemisphere. The danger has increased."

Said Senator Danaher (R.-Conn.): "In September and October of 1939 those of us who felt the United States should adhere to principle in international dealings told the senate and the people that repeal of the arms embargo was the first step toward war. The administration denied that claim. Events over intervening months, week by and now day by day, prove these steps are getting faster and shorter . . ."

Senator Wheeler: "Lifting the ban against more than one year's service would not be keeping faith either with the boys drafted or the American people. Here we have the picture of the administration asking that American boys be sent any place in the orld and MacKenzie King, the head of the Canadian government, saying that he is opposed to conscription and that Canadians will not be sent abroad without their consent. We are dominated by the British even more than the Canadians or the Australians."

At an informal press conference yesterday, Wheeler announced that he had been reliably "informed that we are about to take over Iceland and send troops and ships and planes there. My information is that the men will embark on the 23rd or the 24th of July."

It was his understanding, he said,, that the troops would relieve the British forces which occupied the island sister kingdom of Denmark last year after the Germans sent their army into Denmark. The reported reason for the occupation, he said, was to permit American ships to carry war supplies there for transshipment to England in British vessels.

Rep. Thomason, elaborating his comment, told newsmen that there appeared no military necessity for lifting the restrictions relating to use of the forces only in the western hemisphere.

"If something comes up, congress can be depended upon to enact the proper amending legislation almost overnight," he said. "It wouldn't take long to declare war or whatever other national emergency might be necessary.

"I, for one, am reluctant for congress to surrender its jurisdiction over some of these matters. And I doubt that congress would pass such liberalizing legislation if it ever gets a crack at it."

Rep. Sparkman (D.-Ala.), another member of the military committee, said he would keep an open mind but he maintained that "there was a very definite understanding" that the selectees would be in service only one year.

"They will have to show me by some very convincing testimony that changes are needed," Sparkman said. "If we are in such imminent danger of war that we need an army constantly in the field, I'd be in favor of the changes. But they ought to give consideration to the people who planned to be away only one year."

Rep. Brooks (D.-La.), a third committeeman, said that perhaps some plan could be worked out for the release of "those national guardsmen badly needed at home."

Perhaps, he said, a system of voluntary release might be evolved, provided that the number leaving the service did not break down the whole program.

"I see no objection to any changes necessary in the laws to permit use of our troops on any of our bases, but I want more information before we permit use of our troops throughout the world indiscriminately," Brooks said.

Rep. Harness (D.-Ind.), also a committee member, said he would oppose both of Marshall's proposals.

Husband Changes Sex, Bride Continues to Live With 'Her'

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—Lorraine Wilcox Richards, who discovered she was a husbandless bride because a sex metamorphosis transformed Edward Price Richards into an effeminate groom, declares "we will go on living together."

It was love at first sight when they met last autumn and they were married Nov. 18, Mrs Richards recalled. Richards, 29, had registered for conscription but since has been placed in class 4-F—physically unfit—because of the metamorphosis.

"Even then (last November) portentous physiological charges were taking place within Edward, as I called him then, but in the rapture of love he forgot them, or ignored them," Mrs. Richards, 32, continued.

"I was shocked at the discovery. But instead of anger, or bitterness, it was sympathy I felt for the person to whom I had been wed.

"I realized it was not possible for her to be my husband or to go on living as a man, especially since the sex changes daily became more pronounced.

"We talked things over. Edward became Barbara. And she—I never again could think of her as him—began to wear women's clothing, very becomingly, too, and to live, think and act like a woman.

"I instigated legal procedure under which Barbara is to become, we hope, a woman by court order. . . .

(Richards has petitioned superior court for permission to change hi sname to Barbara Ann.)

"We will go on living together, at least for the time being. Why not? We can't be mates in the biological sense of the word, but we are perfect friends."

Richards wearing a silk skirt and blouse, in contrast to Mrs Richards' rough tweed suit, smoothed golden curls with tinted fingernails and offered:

"I like being a woman. I've been told that there is no possibility of my becoming a man again, but even if there were, I shouldn't wish it. Femininity seems to have been my destiny."

BARBARA ANN RICHARDS

Dr. Marcus Graham of Los Angeles, endocrinologist who presented Richards' case to an American medical association convention, said a childhood illness probably was responsible for the metamorphosis. Richards graduated from a boys' school and until recently was an interior decorator.

PAY $687 IN SHEEP CLAIMS

Commissioners Order Payment To 21 Farmers; Damages Run High For Month.

Payment of sheep claims amounting to $687.70 for June, highest for any single month in recent years, was authorized today by Richland county commissioners.

The claims, representing county funds paid farmers for sheep killed by dogs, showed a marked increase last month because both sheep and dogs usually are permitted a wider range in hot weather and owners probably do not watch them as closely as at other times, commissioners said.

The largest claim, for $158, was submitted by Mrs. Flora Barr for sheep killed on her Jefferson township farm. Twenty-one claims were turned in to the county. They ranged downward to $6. Claims are paid from dog tag funds.

Farmers who filed claims and the amounts they will be paid for sheep losses are:

O. C. Adams, $20; Corliss Baker, $10; Mrs. Flora Barr, $158; Arthur Bevier, $18; Harry Bollinger, $10; C. F. Cole, $112; Theodore Courson, $20; S. F. Fackler, $6; D. S. Gates, $10; E. R. Hieber, $22; Walter Lehman, $17; J. A. Pease, $35; Harry Pugh, $39; John C. Robinson, $21; Lester Sites, $22; T. H. Sheppard, $15; A. A. Vantilburg, $26; A. H. Wolford, $20, J. W. Stimens, $15; Fred Stover, $9, and F. B. Vanasdale, $49.

COLONIES CLAIM THEIR FREEDOM

Congress Approves Break With Britain at Close of Two-Day Session In Philadelphia.

chusetts. Hancock, writing his name in large letters, said:

"There, John Bull may read my name without spectacles."

Hancock's signature was attested by Charles Thomson, secretary of the congress. The 50 odd individual members of the congress probably will sign the document at an early date.

Copies of the declaration will be sent to the several assemblies, conventions, councils of safety, and to General George Washington and the several commanding officers for reading to the continental troops. There is talk also of holding a great celebration of independence in the State house on July 8.

Rings Prematurely.

It seems that the bell in the tower of the State house was rung prematurely this afternoon. About 2 o'clock a boy on watch below shouted to the old bellman in the tower above: "Ring." Final approval of the declaration, however, was not made until later.

The original draft of the document as it came from the committee of five, headed by Jefferson, was amended somewhat. A notable excision was a passage charging the King with carrying on the slave trade and with refusing to allow American legislatures to suppress it.

Members contended it was inconsistent to arraign the king for doing something that some of the colonies were carrying on so energetically.

During the debate Jefferson never said a word in defense of his own work, but he winced as he saw some of his most cherished phrases on liberty eliminated.

The enthusiasm displayed the day before yesterday by the oratorical, rotund John Adams of Massachusetts upon adoption of the independence resolution was still undimmed after the signing.

"The second day of July will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America," said Adams. "I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival."

Clark Speculates.

Delegate Abraham Clark, of New Jersey, said, "Our Congress is an august assembly, and can they support the declaration now on the anvil, they will be the greatest assembly on earth."

That Clark, however, is somewhat dubious over the outcome of today's action is indicated by the fact that he told a colleague he didn't know whether his title would turn out to be "honorable" or "dishonorable."

"Perhaps," he said "our congress will be exalted on a high gallows. The issue of the war will settle it."
